Greeks Charge Slavic States Assist Rebels

Fighting Is Called "Invasion" With Albanian, Yugo Connivance

BRITISH OFFICIALS TERM IT "CIVIL WAR"

Disorders Center In Region Bitterly Disputed At Peace Parley

LONDON, Sept. 25 (AP)—A Greek Embassy spokesman declared today that heavy fighting in the mountains of Northern Greece was "an invasion of subversive elements from Albania and Yugoslavia with the connivance of the two governments."

Both British and Greek government officials referred to the fighting as a small-scale "civil war," with the Slavic states backing leftist insurgents and Britain supplying arms to the Greek government.

Greek sources charged that Yugoslavia and Albania were furnishing military supplies to the rebels, and a spokesman for the British Foreign Office said there was "no reason to doubt" this allegation.

Spokesmen for both Greece and Turkey, describing their countries as barriers to Slavic expansion in the strategic Eastern Mediterranean, spoke of a new war of nerves inspired by nations in the Russian sphere of influence.

"Invasion" Is Expected Allied military leaders in Athens have said they would not be surprised at some sort of an "invasion" before winter weather makes fighting almost impossible in the mountains.

Disorders centered in the border region bitterly disputed at the Paris peace conference the bastion between the Russian sphere of Europe and troubled Greece itself. The rebels are composed principally of groups opposed to the imminent return of King George II from wartime exile in Britain.

Strict secrecy was imposed on the movement of the King, called home by a better than 2 to 1 majority in the recent plebiscite. The King is expected to depart for his homeland tomorrow or Friday.

A source close to the King said his return was the country's adding: "British and American foreign policy is being attacked over the body of Greece in a war of nerves. The objective (of the attackers) is to reach the Mediterranean and threaten the lifeline of western powers' communication."

"Question Of War" Greek Premier Constantinos Tsaldaris, speaking at strategic Salonika in the heart of the troubled mountainous region, said the fighting was no longer a "question of order" but a "question of war" and that his government would use "all means at its disposal" to crush the insurgents.

Tsaldaris also accused "foreign influences" of perpetuating disorders in Greece.

The British Foreign Office said Greek armed forces still were receiving arms and equipment from Britain and indicated that British troops might enter the fighting "in the last resort."

The British recently announced that some British troops were being withdrawn from Greece in a reshuffle of forces in the Middle East but 40,000 of them were estimated to be in the country.

The Foreign Office spokesman said that British troops would not join the Greeks in their campaign against the insurgents, however, without an invitation from the Greek government.

British Fleet Is Question Mark "There was no immediate indication of whether the British Mediterranean fleet, massed just off the Greek coast for summer maneuvers, would figure in any British support of the Greek government."

British troops invaded Greece late in 1944 to drive out the Germans. (Continued On Page 2, Col. 7)

Reece Labels McCormack's Proposal To Suspend Meat Ceilings "Cheap Politics"

Army Calls For 25 Per Cent Of Packers' Meat Production

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—In a sweeping attempt to obtain 60,000,000 pounds of meat a month, the Army today served priority orders on all federally-inspected packers calling for 25 per cent of their total meat production.

It spoke of possible "punitive" action by the Agriculture Department in case the priorities were disregarded. It said that the Army's "visible supply of meat is less than a month's requirement."

U. S. Officials Are Concerned Over Greek Outlook

Washington May Renew Proposal For U. N. Council Investigation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—On the ground that an outbreak of trouble anywhere potentially affects peace everywhere, American officials took a serious view tonight of reports of virtual warfare in Greece.

Indications were that for the moment the United States was studying the situation to determine what if anything it might do in the interest of maintaining international stability. Top diplomatic authorities also noted the importance of Greek developments to relations between Russia and the great powers.

One key to the fighting in Greece is the fact that the borders between that country and Albania and Yugoslavia are part of the frontier between the western world and Soviet Russia.

Traditional Rivalries Beyond this are traditional rivalries and conflicts between the peoples of Southeastern Europe and the tragic economic and political disintegration left in Greece at the end of the war. All these are factors which make for trouble.

When Soviet charges of Greek threats to the peace were before the Security Council recently, the American government proposed a method of procedure and some persons here believe the proposal might be renewed.

While the Soviet view was that the Greeks themselves were creating a threat to the peace, the British put the blame on Albanian and Yugoslav sources, the United States suggested that the Security Council appoint a commission to find out exactly what are the causes of trouble along the Greek borders.

British Opposed Procedure Russia went along with the American suggestion more or less unenthusiastically, according to diplomatic informants here. Russia on the other hand objected to any council procedure which might appear to cast blame on either Yugoslavia or the Balkan states.

The general feeling of hope for renewed co-operation among the great powers engendered by Prime Minister Stalin's statement earlier this week appears to be the basis for the part of authorities here that the Greek situation can be kept under control. However, it is admitted to be the sort of explosive circumstance which could cause much greater trouble if it got out of hand.

Killed By Bull

SALISBURY, Md., Sept. 25 (AP)—Although an appeal for blood brought 50 volunteers, Martin Wilson Johnson, 70-year-old farmer living near Laurel, Del., died in Peninsula General Hospital here today of injuries received two weeks ago when he was attacked by a bull.

"Famine" Produces Split Among Key Administration Supporters

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—The "meat famine" and how to ease it sprang up as a prime issue tonight as House Democratic Leader McCormack, of Massachusetts, called for a 60-day suspension of ceilings and Carroll Reece, Republican national chairman, cried "cheap politics."

Two New England governors also joined the clamor for federal action and Mayor Edward J. Kelly, of Chicago, headed personally for Washington. But harried officials here indicated they feel they can do nothing just now.

McCormack demanded that "price control on meat and scarce food products" be suspended for 60 days to give "our hospitals and our citizens" enough to eat.

"Obvious Political Trick" Reece promptly noted that this would carry the suspension just past the November elections. Calling the controls "unworkable," he said the proposal to suspend them temporarily was "one of the most obvious political tricks of all time."

His statement added that McCormack "merely wants to x x x to the voters" and that if the administration "had listened to Republican advice during the last session of Congress such chicanery as Mr. McCormack now proposes would be unnecessary."

McCormack told newsmen in Boston he had discussed the matter with President Truman and other administration officers. He made his proposal in a telegram to Price Administrator Paul Porter.

His action indicated that the meat "famine," occurring in the midst of the congressional campaigns, has produced a definite cleavage of opinion among administration backers on the issue of price controls.

Democratic Gov. Maurice J. Tobin, of Massachusetts, urged that "federal authorities seize meat slaughtering plants and also institute immediate steps to purchase hogs and cattle." His statement added that "if such action is not taken, then I call for abolition of all ceilings on meat products."

Republican Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin, of Connecticut, reporting a "desperate meat shortage in Connecticut hospitals," telegraphed Secretary of Agriculture Anderson proposing that special slaughtering quotas be established for institutions and that meat from government sources be made available to them.

The Beef Industry Advisory Committee, planning formal steps to petition for removal of controls, continued its sessions with the OPA. The machinery for its test cannot be set in motion, however, until October 1.

Another decontrol campaign—by restaurant men—also was shaping up. J. E. Frawley, chairman of the American Hotel Association, announced in New York that association representatives will meet here tomorrow with the Industry Advisory Committee to ask the OPA to decontrol meat and meat prices, or meat prices alone.

Unless they get relief from the order rolling back menu prices to the June 30 levels, the hotelmen said, they will confer with counsel to determine their next step, indicating a possible resort to the courts.

Estimate Is Rejected Later in the day, the committee turned down an estimate of its assistant counsel, Nathaniel Gennett, that the New England Shipbuilding Corporation of South Portland, Me., made a 4,655-per cent profit on its capital.

Committee members noted that Gennett's estimate was based on original capital of $278,000 and estimated fees of $1,613,285. Since more than half the total fees are subject to renegotiation and the company has paid taxes of $4,023,000 on part of the fees, the members said, the estimate was unfair.

Moreover, Michael N. Stoler, accountant for the firm, said the original capital was augmented by stockholders loans of $750,000,000 and bank loans of $5,000,000. He reported the company delivered 244 ships and the value of its contracts was approximately $250,000,000.

Norman G. Maiden, Dallas, accountant for the Todd-Houston Shipbuilding Corporation, Houston, testified that his company's fees after renegotiations but before payment of taxes and other non-reimbursable expenses amounted to $11,123,475 on contract volume of $220,850,000.

Maiden said the original capital of $189,200 was increased to $689,200 by stockholders' loans.

Other committee members said that Prof. S. P. Alexandrov, the Russian on the committee, raised no objection to the presumably non-controversial report when it was drafted after 18 meetings but insisted he needed sanction from Moscow before formal approval. The other 11 nations on the committee, with the possible exception of Poland, were said to be ready to sign at any time.

The parent Atomic Energy Commission has not been in session since July, when it adjourned to await this report in which the scientists were asked to give an opinion on the type of control necessary to make sure that atomic energy could not be used for destructive purposes.

Kaiser Defends Profit Motive As Victory Spur

House Committee Rejects Own Counsel's Earnings Estimate

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—After hearing Shipbuilder Henry Kaiser warmly defend the profit motive as a spur to victory in wartime, the House Merchant Marine Committee today rejected an estimate by its own counsel that a New England shipbuilding firm made a 4,655-per cent profit on its capital.

Committee members said the figure was unfair to the company. Kaiser, whose profits have been under examination by the committee, declared he knows of no country "that's ever won a war except under the profit system."

But he volunteered for the soup line. He told the committee that if Congress could figure out a way to prevent wartime profits, "I'll be for it."

At the same time John A. McConne, president of the California Shipbuilding Corporation, accused the government of "misleading" the people with "half-truths" about shipbuilding profits.

Painter Gambles His Life On Own Safety Device And Survives

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—When his painter's scaffold collapsed today five stories above a Manhattan street, 54-year-old Jack Frankel gambled his life on the effectiveness of a self-invented safety device—and he won.

Crowds in the street below Frankel suddenly gasped when a rope slipped and one end of his scaffold fell. Instead of plunging to the street he was left dangling in mid-air by the "automatic life protection device" he had spent the past six years perfecting.

Frankel had about his waist a three-pound reel-like mechanism attached to his scaffold's guide rope. Calmly he unwound the reel, lowering himself a cautious six inches a time.

Committee members said the figure was unfair to the company. Kaiser, whose profits have been under examination by the committee, declared he knows of no country "that's ever won a war except under the profit system."

Peace Delegates May Vote Friday On Finnish Pact

Secretary Of State Byrnes To Preside At Plenary Session

PARIS, Sept. 26 (AP)—The Paris peace conference will hold a plenary session Friday to approve on that day or the next the treaty with Finland, first of the five peace treaties to be completed. United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes will preside.

Soon thereafter, it was believed, the Council of Foreign Ministers will meet to put the final seal on the document that will end Finland's participation in the Second World War and permit her to apply for membership in the United Nations.

Ministers' Plan To Be Discussed The peace-conference secretariat's announcement of a plenary session Friday indicated that the delegates would first discuss proposals of the Council of Foreign Ministers to speed the work of the conference. This might force postponement of the vote on the Finnish treaty until Saturday.

The working commissions meanwhile dragged on with their tedious mission of hammering out conflicting viewpoints on the other four pacts with Italy, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria.

Outstanding was the decision of the Italian commission to adopt the principle of 75 per cent compensation for United Nations business firms and individuals suffering war damage in Italy. The measure was carried 13 to 5 with two abstentions, and the United States lost a fight to reduce the figure to 25 per cent of the estimated $110,000,000 damages.

Russia Stands With U. S. Britain and the empire supported France, who made the proposal, but refused the right to continue the fight for 100 per cent. Russia stood with the United States.

The Italian Political Commission concluded a three-day debate on the future of Italy's colonies, successfully voting down amendments to the article drafted by the "Big Four" Foreign Ministers, and then adopted the article which shoves the whole problem for a year.

The article provided that foreign ministers deputies would seek a way of disposing of the colonies and, if successful, would turn the matter over to the United Nations for solution.

"Fast" Time Ends At 2 A. M. Sunday

(By The Associated Press) Daylight Saving Time—the annual summertime bugaboo of radio networks, railroads and airlines—ends officially at 2 a. m. Sunday in six states and portions of 19 others that adopted it last April 28.

Twenty-three states which remained on Standard Time will not be affected by the setback of the clocks.

Only in portions of one county—Acworth, in Maine—will Daylight Saving Time be retained temporarily. The extra hour of sunlight there will be used to aid the potato harvest.

Radio networks, railroads and airlines have said they will return to normal schedules Sunday, dropping all innovations such as rebroadcasts and rescheduling necessitated by the summer time change.

Vet Admits Gory Killing Of Librarian

Ex-Navy Youth Says He "Wanted To Kill" To Satisfy Urge

BRYAN, O., Sept. 25 (AP)—A 21-year-old ex-Navy youth tonight admitted the gory killing of blonde Emily Abernathy, a librarian here, and declared in a signed statement that he went there "with the idea of killing this woman." Prosecuting Attorney Charles G. Stahl reported.

The youth was named as James Robert Engle, son of G. A. Engle, a store manager, by Sheriff Norman Barnes. Barnes said he would file first degree murder charges against young Engle tomorrow.

Engle was quoted in his statement as saying "I just wanted to kill" to satisfy an urge he first felt while stationed in England as a sailor. He gave the prosecutor a large-bladed pen knife and said it was the weapon he used, Stahl reported.

Found In Pool Of Blood The 30-year-old librarian, who came here June 1 from Pulaski, Tenn., was found in a pool of blood, in the library basement last Thursday night, her throat and breasts slashed 23 times.

Barnes gave this portion of the signed statement: "I went into the library to look at the magazines and saw that she (Miss Abernathy) was all alone. I went out and walked around the block several times and up an alley. I wanted to kill her then."

"I went back to the library and asked her if I could look at some newspapers. Then I went to the basement with the idea of killing this woman and the lights were out. I almost did it then, but something stopped me."

"Later she came down and told me it was time to go. I grabbed her and she screamed. I put my hand over her mouth and she screamed. I knocked her down and beat her with my fist and kicked her."

Slaying Shocked Community The arrest tonight was the first since Miss Abernathy's brutal slaying shocked this little northwestern Ohio community of 6,000 with its discovery by an assistant librarian who noticed that the library lights were burning at 11 p. m. Thursday—two and a half hours after the regular closing time.

The confession provided little information on the motive leading to the killing. Newcomer said it indicated "something snapped" in the young man's mind.

A coroner's report earlier established that the attractive librarian had not been raped.

Iran Uprising Reports Conflict

TEHRAN, Sept. 25 (AP)—Tehran newspapers carried conflicting dispatches tonight on fighting around the Persian Gulf port of Bushire between the government gendarmerie and forces of the rebellious Qashqai tribesmen, who were variously reported to have penetrated the government defenses and to have been held off by the troops.

Scattered and unconfirmed newspaper reports on the uprising in the Southern Iran Province of Fars, which the government has promised to put down "with an iron fist," gave this picture of the situation: The garrison at Borazjan was under attack by tribesmen and was still resisting.

The towns of Abadeh and Shiraz remained calm, and telegraph communications between Tehran and Shiraz were uninterrupted.

Sen. Tydings Urges Truman To Call World Conference On Disarmament

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25 (AP)—Sen. Tydings (D-Md.) called upon President Truman tonight to convene an immediate international conference to discuss disarmament on a world-wide basis.

He said that no other nation commanded international respect comparable to that in which the United States is held and that "only President Truman has the prestige to call such a conference."

"Unless this program of world disarmament xxx x x is immediately undertaken," he said, "there is grave promise that the United Nations will be but a snare and a delusion, and that it is ultimately doomed as the most colossal and sad failure of all the institutions created by mankind throughout history."

"We are embracing again the League of Nations and its time-worn dream," Tydings said in an address before the Baltimore Advertising Club.

Pointing to a clause in the United Nations Charter which says "all parties shall refrain from the threat or use of force against the territorial integrity or political independence of any state," he said:

Union Refuses To Take Action On New Offer

Workers Won't Consider Compromise Until Injunction Is Lifted

PRESIDENT OF UNION APOLOGIZES TO COURT

George Mueller Released In Custody Of Counsel To Attend Meeting

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 26 (Thursday) (AP)—Striking members of the power workers union last night refused to consider an offer from the Duquesne Light Company for settlement of their collective bargaining dispute until an injunction forbidding their strike is lifted.

The vote was taken at a secret meeting attended by President George L. Mueller, of the union, who earlier had apologized to the Allegheny County Common Pleas Court for referring to an injunction issued September 8 against the strike as "a scrap of paper."

Mueller, sentenced yesterday to a year in jail for contempt of court, was released in the custody of his counsel to attend the meeting and then was permitted to continue in his custody overnight.

Judge Harry H. Rowand at 11:36 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) adjourned court until 8:30 a. m., at which time Mueller was ordered to appear.

The union leader, smiling broadly, left the courtroom in company of his attorney, Herman Lipsitz. Questioned by reporters he said:

"No comment."

The vote by the independent power union seeking wage increases and other adjustments from the light company was 1,771 to 480 against considering the settlement proposal which was a compromise.

Industry Crippled Mueller, in making his apology to the court, declared that he would urge members of his union to consider the proposal and to end their strike. But the workers voted only on the question of whether to consider the new proposal from the company, giving their negative answer.

The strike entered its third day today. Industry has been seriously crippled and thousands of workers made idle, but homes and public buildings continue to receive electricity. Street lights are on.

Mueller previously declined to apologize for allegedly calling an injunction forbidding the power strike "a scrap of paper" and ordering it started in spite of the court order.

The union leader entered the courtroom of Judge Harry H. Rowand of Allegheny county in custody of Sheriff Walter Monaghan and told the court:

"I want to say that in the statements I have made I meant no affront to this court, and I apologize to your honor if I appeared to be in contempt."

He asked that he be released to attend the union membership meeting session at Carnegie Hall and declared he would urge acceptance by the power workers union of a new offer from the Duquesne Light Company to end their dispute.

A dramatic turn came at the end of the second day of the power strike which today had killed more than 36,500 persons in many industries. (Continued On Page 2, Col. 6)

75 A-Bomb Test Vessels Suspected Of Radioactivity Being Made Safe

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—About 75 ships which anchored in Bikini lagoon after the second bomb explosion two months ago are "suspected" of radioactivity and are being cleaned, Operations Crossroads announced today.

The joint Army-Navy task force said that "the presence of a radioactive residue in the salt water lines and condensers," had been discovered in some ships now at West Coast ports, Hawaii and Guam. It said that special methods for cleaning the sides and bottoms of ships suspected of being dangerous, together with the use of oxygen breathing apparatus and a system of checking and quarantine, are being carried out in order to render the ships radiologically safe.

There is, the task force statement declared, "no hazard for personnel not actively engaged in operation, repair or cleaning the contaminated portions of the ships." The task force hastened to add this meant the presence of ships in the harbor constituted no danger.

Capt. George M. Lyon, radiological safety officer, emphasized that there is no danger from casual contact with radioactive portions of the ships. "The great majority of ships suspected of radioactivity have shown no more than one tenth of one Roentgen in 24 hours," he told a reporter, adding that the exact amount of radiation could not be revealed.

Lyon's reference was to the unit of radiation measurement used for purposes of radiological safety. Radiologists estimate that it would take at least a 24-hour dosage of between 300 and 500 Roentgens to be lethal.

The residues on the ships are of both the more powerful Gamma type and the slower radiating Beta type. Clinging to the steel of hulls or decks or to salt water lines and condensers, the amount of energy loosed by them is harmless. The danger would be if a man swallowed or breathed material containing released fission fragments.

Other committee members said that Prof. S. P. Alexandrov, the Russian on the committee, raised no objection to the presumably non-controversial report when it was drafted after 18 meetings but insisted he needed sanction from Moscow before formal approval. The other 11 nations on the committee, with the possible exception of Poland, were said to be ready to sign at any time.

The parent Atomic Energy Commission has not been in session since July, when it adjourned to await this report in which the scientists were asked to give an opinion on the type of control necessary to make sure that atomic energy could not be used for destructive purposes.

LONDON, Sept. 25 (AP)—A Greek Embassy spokesman declared today that heavy fighting in the mountains of Northern Greece was "an invasion of subversive elements from Albania and Yugoslavia with the connivance of the two governments."

Both British and Greek government officials referred to the fighting as a small-scale "civil war," with the Slavic states backing leftist insurgents and British supplying arms to the Greek government.

Greek sources charged that Yugoslavia and Albania were furnishing military supplies to the rebels, and a spokesman for the British Foreign Office said there was "no reason to doubt" this allegation.

Spokesmen for both Greece and Turkey, describing their countries as barriers to Slavic expansion in the strategic Eastern Mediterranean, spoke of a new war of nerves inspired by nations in the Russian sphere of influence.

"Invasion" Is Expected
Allied military leaders in Athens have said they would not be surprised at some sort of an "invasion" before winter weather makes fighting almost impossible in the mountains.

Disorders centered in the border region bitterly disputed at the Paris peace conference—the bastion between the Russian sphere of Europe and troubled Greece itself. The rebels are composed principally of groups opposed to the imminent return of King George II from wartime exile in Britain.

Strict secrecy was imposed on the movement of the King, called home by a better than 2 to 1 majority in the recent plebiscite. The King is expected to depart for his homeland tomorrow or Friday.

A source close to the King said his return was expected to help "stabilize" the country, adding: "British and American foreign policy is being attacked over the body of Greece in a war of nerves. The objective of the attackers is to reach the Mediterranean and threaten the lifeline of western powers' communication."

"Question Of War"
Greek Premier Constantin Tsaldaris, speaking at strategic Salonika in the heart of the troubled mountainous region, said the fighting was no longer a "question of order" but a question of "survival" and that his government would use "all means at its disposal" to crush the insurgents.

Tsaldaris also accused "foreign influences" of perpetuating disorders in Greece.

The British Foreign Office said Greek armed forces still were receiving arms and equipment from Britain and indicated that British troops might enter the fighting "in the last resort."

The British recently announced that some British troops were being withdrawn from Greece in a reshuffle of forces in the Middle East but 40,000 of them were estimated to be in the country.

The Foreign Office spokesman said that British troops would not join the Greeks in their campaign against the insurgents, however, without an invitation from the Greek government.

British Fleet Is Question Mark
There was no immediate indication of whether the British Mediterranean fleet, massed just off the Greek coast for summer maneuvers, would figure in any British support of the Greek government.

British troops invaded Greece late in 1944 to drive out the Germans. (Continued On Page 2, Col. 7)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—In a sweeping attempt to obtain 60,000,000 pounds of meat a month, the Army today served priority orders on all federally-inspected packers calling for 25 per cent of their total meat production.

It spoke of possible "punitive" action by the Agriculture Department in case the priorities were disregarded. It said that the Army's "visible supply of meat is less than a month's requirement."

U. S. Officials Are Concerned Over
Greek OutlookWashington May Renew
Proposal For U. N.
Council Investigation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—On the ground that an outbreak of trouble anywhere potentially affects peace everywhere, American officials took a serious view tonight of reports of virtual warfare in Greece.

Indications were that for the moment the United States was studying the situation to determine what if anything it might do in the interest of maintaining international stability. Top diplomatic authorities also noted the importance of Greek developments to relations between Russia and the great powers.

One key to the fighting in Greece is the fact that the borders between that country and Albania and Yugoslavia are part of the frontier between the western world and Soviet Russia.

Traditional Rivalries
Beyond this are traditional rivalries and conflicts between the peoples of Southeastern Europe and the tragic economic and political disintegration left in Greece at the end of the war. All these are factors which make for trouble.

When Soviet charges of Greek threats to the peace were before the Security Council recently, the American government proposed a method of procedure and some persons here believe the proposal might be renewed.

While the Soviet view was that the Greeks themselves were creating a threat to the peace, and the British put the blame on Albanian and Yugoslav sources, the United States suggested that the Security Council appoint a commission to find out exactly what are the causes of trouble along the Greek borders.

Russia Opposed Procedure
Britain went along with the American suggestion more or less unenthusiastically, according to diplomatic informants here. Russia on the other hand objected to any council procedure which might appear to cast blame on either Yugoslavia or Albania and nothing came of the American proposal.

The general feeling of hope for renewed co-operation among the great powers engendered by Prime Minister Stalin's statement earlier this week appears to be the basis for relief on the part of authorities here that the Greek situation can be kept under control. However, it is admitted to be the sort of explosive circumstance which could cause much greater trouble if it got out of hand.

SALISBURY, Md., Sept. 25 (AP)—Although an appeal for blood brought 50 volunteers, Martin Wilson Johnson, 70-year-old farmer living near Laurel, Del., died in Peninsula General Hospital here today of injuries received two weeks ago when he was attacked by a bull.

75 A-Bomb Test Vessels Suspected
Of Radioactivity Being Made Safe

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—About 75 ships which anchored in Bikini lagoon after the second bomb explosion two months ago are "suspected" of radioactivity and are being cleaned, Operations Crossroads announced today.

The joint Army-Navy task force said that "the presence of a radioactive residue in the salt water lines and condensers," had been discovered in some ships now at West coast ports, Hawaii and Guam. It said that special methods for cleaning the sides and bottoms of ships suspected of being dangerous, together with the use of oxygen rebreathing apparatus and a system of checking and quarantine, are being carried out in order to render the ships radiologically safe.

There is, the task force statement declared, "no hazard for personnel not actively engaged in operation, repair or cleaning the contaminated portions of the ships." The task force hastened to add this meant the presence of ships in the harbor constituted no danger.

Capt. George M. Lyon, radiological safety officer, emphasized that there is no danger from casual contact with radioactive portions of the ships. "The great majority of ships suspected of radioactivity have shown no more than a tenth of one Roentgen in 24 hours," he said, adding that the exact amount of radiation could not be revealed.

Lyon's reference was to the unit of radiation measurement used for purposes of radiological safety. Radiologists estimate that it would take at least a 24-hour dosage of between 300 and 500 Roentgens to be lethal.

The residues on the ships are of both the more powerful Gamma type and the slower radiating Beta type. Clinging to the steel of hulls or decks or to salt water lines or condensers, the amount of energy loosed by them is harmless. The danger would be if a man swallowed or breathed material containing released radiation fragments.

"Famine" Produces Split
Among Key Administration Supporters

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—The "meat famine" and how to ease it sprang up as a prime issue tonight as House Democratic Leader McCormack, of Massachusetts, called for a 60-day suspension of ceilings and Carroll Reece, Republican national chairman, cried "cheap politics."

Two New England governors also joined the clamor for federal action and Mayor Edward J. Kelly, of Chicago, headed personally for Washington. But harried officials here indicated they felt they can do nothing just now.

McCormack demanded that "price control on meat and scarce food products" be suspended for 60 days to give "our hospitals and our citizens" enough to eat.

"Obvious Political Trick"
Reece promptly noted that this would carry the suspension just past the November elections. Calling the controls "unworkable," he said the proposal to suspend them temporarily was "one of the most obvious political tricks of all time."

His statement added that McCormack "meets wants to x x x to kid the voters" and that if the administration "had listened to Republican advice during the last session of Congress such chicanery as Mr. McCormack now proposes would be unnecessary."

McCormack told newsmen in Boston he had discussed the matter with President Truman and other administration officers. He made his proposal in a telegram to Price Administrator Paul Porter.

His action indicated that the meat "famine," occurring in the midst of the congressional campaigns, has produced a definite cleavage of opinion among administration backers on the issue of price controls. McCormack is one of the administration's chief lieutenants on Capitol Hill.

Democratic Representative J. Tobin, of Massachusetts, urged that "federal authorities seize meat slaughtering plants and also institute immediate steps to purchase hogs and cattle." His statement added that if such action is not taken then I call for abolition of all ceilings on meat products.

Restaurants Plan Campaign
Republican Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin, of Connecticut, reporting a "desperate meat shortage in Connecticut hospitals," telegraphed Secretary Francis B. Anderson, proposing that special slaughtering quotas be established for institutions and that meat from government sources be made available to them.

The Beef Industry Advisory Committee, planning formal steps to petition for removal of controls, continued its sessions with the OPA. The machinery for its test cannot be set in motion, however, until October 8.

Another decontrol campaign—by restaurant men—also was shaping up. J. E. Fawcett, chairman of the American Hotel Association, announced in New York that association representatives will meet here tomorrow with the Industry Advisory Committee to ask the OPA to decontrol meat and meat prices, or unless they get relief from the order rolling back menu prices to the June 30 levels, the hotelmen said, they will confer with counsel to determine their next step, indicating a possible resort to the courts.

Estimate Is Rejected
Later in the day, the committee turned down an estimate of its assistant counsel, Nathaniel Gennett, that the New England Shipbuilding Corporation of South Portland, Me., made a 4,065-per cent profit on its capital.

Committee members noted that Gennett's estimate was based on original capital of $278,000 and estimated fees of $1,613,285. Since more than half the total fees are subject to renegotiation and the company has paid taxes of $4,023,000 on part of the fees, the members said, the estimate was unfair.

Moreover, Michael N. Stoler, accountant for the firm, said the original capital was augmented by stockholders' loans of $500,000 and bank loans of $500,000. He reported the company delivered 244 ships and the value of its contracts was approximately $250,000,000.

Norman G. Malden, Dallas, accountant for the Todd-Houston Shipbuilding Corporation, Houston, testified the company's fees after negotiations but before payment of taxes and other non-reimbursable expenses amounted to $1,123,475 on contract volume of $220,850,000.

Malden said the original capital of $189,200 was increased to $689,396 by stockholders' loans.

There still were no indications whether the Soviet Union would be ready to vote, but a person close to the committee said that the report would emerge regardless. In the event Russia won't approve, this person said, the committee would act in one of two ways—either by asking the Soviet representative, who helped draft the report, to approve it as an individual, or take a ballot and merely record any Russian objection or abstention.

Other committee members said that Prof. S. P. Alexander, the Russian on the committee, raised no objection to the presumably non-controversial report when it was drafted after 18 meetings but insisted he needed sanction from Moscow before formal approval. The other 11 nations on the committee, with the possible exception of Poland, were said to be ready to sign at any time.

HUSBAND, 15, AND FAMILY—Robert Drew (second from left), age 15, sought permission yesterday at Detroit to quit high school in order to support a 30-year-old wife and two stepchildren. Left to right are Sharon, 8; Robert Drew, his wife, and Owen, 10. Six weeks a husband, Robert Drew said he was tired of learning about "nuts and bolts" in a technical school classroom and wanted to get a job benefitting his status as head of a family. Recorder's Judge John L. Maher turned the case over to the Board of Education. Michigan law required school attendance up to the age of 16 except where absence is necessary for a family's support.

Kaiser Defends
Profit Motive

Own Counsel's Earn-

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—After hearing Shipbuilder Henry Kaiser warmly defend the profit motive as a spur to victory in wartime, the House Merchant Marine Committee today rejected an estimate by its own counsel that a New England shipbuilding firm made a 4,065-per cent profit on its capital.

Committee members said the figure was unfair to the company. Kaiser, whose profits have been under examination by the committee, declared he knows of no country "that's ever won a war except under the profit system."

But he volunteered for the soup line. He told the committee that if Congress could figure out a way to prevent wartime profits, "I'll be for it."

At the same time John A. McCone, president of the California Shipbuilding Corporation, accused the government of "misleading" the people with "half-truths" about shipbuilding profits.

Painter Gambles His Life On Own Safety
Device And Survives

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—When his painter's scaffold collapsed today five stories above a Manhattan street, 54-year-old Jack Frankel gambled his life on the effectiveness of a self-invented safety device—and he won.

Crowds in the street below Frankel suddenly gasped when a rope slipped and one end of his scaffold fell. Instead of plunging to the street he was left dangling in mid-air by the "automatic life protection device" he had spent the past six years perfecting.

Frankel had about his waist a three-pound reel-like mechanism attached to his scaffold's guide rope. Calmly he unwound the reel, lowering himself a cautious six inches at a time.

Six Men Die
In Oil Tanker
Blast, Fire

SOUTHPORT, N. C., Sept. 25 (AP)—An explosion which rocked and turned into a blazing inferno the 10,172-ton tanker Bennington last night took the lives of at least six seamen as the vessel was proceeding lastly down the Atlantic coast toward Louisiana to take on a cargo of oil.

The six victims, identified by ship's officers, were listed as: Charles Stockwell, 25, Kansas City, Mo.; Kenneth Tlogger, 22, Greenfield, Ill.; Leon W. White, 21, Rocklaw, Tex.; David P. Schwartz, 27, Woodbridge, N. J.; Louis D. Williams, 18, Lake Creek, Tex., and Robert L. Finerty, 53, Jacksonville, Fla.

A check of the ship's roster showed that one victim, previously listed as missing, was included in the six identified dead. One crewman, severely burned, was not expected to live.

The tanker was due to leave here tonight for Wilmington where a hearing will be conducted aboard ship by A. H. Pike and James W. Galloway, inspectors for the United States Coast Guard and Merchant Marine.

A successful two-hour battle to halt the progress of flames which followed the blast ensued under the direction of Capt. K. H. Eitzen, Houston, Texas. The ship made port here under its own power more than 12 hours later after medical supplies had been dropped from a plane.

The captain and 34 members of the crew escaped injury. Crewmen expressed belief that the (Continued On Page 2, Col. 5)

"Fast" Time Ends
At 2 A. M. Sunday

(By The Associated Press)
Daylight Saving Time—the annual summertime bugaboo of radio networks, railroads and airlines—ends officially at 2 a. m. Sunday in six states and portions of 19 others that adopted it last April 28.

Twenty-three states which remained on Standard Time will not be affected by the setback of the clocks.

Only in portions of one county—Aroostook, in Maine—will Daylight Saving Time be retained temporarily. The extra hour of sunlight there will be used to aid the potato harvest.

Radio networks, railroads and airlines have said they will return to normal schedules Sunday, dropping all innovations such as rebroadcasts and rescheduling necessitated by the summer time change.

Peace Delegates

To Preside At Plenary
Session

PARIS, Sept. 26 (AP)—The Paris peace conference will hold a plenary session Friday to approve on that day or the next the treaty with Finland, first of the five peace treaties to be completed. United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes will preside.

Soon thereafter, it was believed, the Council of Foreign Ministers will meet to put the final seal on the document that will end Finland's participation in the Second World War and permit her to apply for membership in the United Nations.

Ministers' Plan To Be Discussed
The peace-conference secretariat's announcement of a plenary session Friday indicated that the delegates would first discuss proposals of the Council of Foreign Ministers to speed the work of the conference. This might force postponement of the vote on the Finnish treaty until Saturday.

The working commissions meanwhile dragged on with their tedious mission of hammering out conflicting viewpoints on the other four treaties with Italy, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria.

Outstanding was the decision of the Italian commission to adopt the principle of 75 per cent compensation for United Nations business firms and individuals suffering war damage in Italy. The measure was carried 13 to 5 with two abstentions, and the United States lost a fight to reduce the figure to 25 per cent of the estimated $110,000,000 damages.

Russia Stands With U. S.
Britain and the empire supported France, who made the proposal, but reserved the right to continue the fight for 100 per cent. Russia stood with the United States.

The Italian Political Commission concluded a three-day debate on the future of Italy's colonies, successfully voting down amendments to the article drafted by the "Big Four" Foreign Ministers, and then adopted the article which shoves the whole problem for a year.

The article provided that foreign ministers debates would seek a way of disposing of the colonies and, if successful, would turn the matter over to the United Nations for solution.

Gory Killing
Of LibrarianEx-Navy Youth Says He "Wanted To Kill" To Satisfy Urge

BRYAN, O., Sept. 25 (AP)—A 21-year-old ex-Navy youth tonight admitted the gory killing of blonde Emily Abernathy, a librarian here, and declared in a signed statement that he went there "with the idea of killing this woman." Prosecuting Attorney Charles G. Stahl reported.

The youth was named as James Robert Engle, son of G. A. Engle, a store manager, by Sheriff Norman Barnes. Barnes said he would file three murder charges against young Engle tomorrow.

Engle was quoted in his statement as saying "I just wanted to kill" to satisfy an urge he first felt while stationed in England as a sailor. He gave the prosecutor a large-bladed pen knife and said it was the weapon he used, Stahl reported.

Found In Pool Of Blood
The 30-year-old librarian, who came here June 1 from Pulaski, Tenn., was found in a pool of blood, in the library basement last Thursday night, her throat and breasts slashed 23 times.

Barnes gave this portion of the signed statement: "I went into the library to look at the magazines and saw that she (Miss Abernathy) was all alone. I went out and walked around the block several times and up an alley. I wanted to kill her then."

"I went back to the library and asked her if I could look at some newspapers. Then I went to the basement with the idea of killing this woman and the lights were out. I almost did it then, but something stopped me."

"Later she came down and told me it was time to go. I grabbed her and she screamed. I put my hand over her mouth and she screamed. I knocked her down and beat her with my fist and kicked her."

Slaying Shocked Community
The arrest tonight was the first since Miss Abernathy's brutal slaying shocked this little northwestern Ohio community of 6,000 with its discovery by an assistant librarian who noticed that the library lights were burning at 11 p. m. Thursday—two and a half hours after the regular closing time.

The confession provided little information on the motive leading to the killing. Newcomer said it inspired "something snapped" in the young man's mind.

A coroner's report earlier established that the attractive librarian had not been raped.

Iran Uprising
Reports Conflict

TEHRAN, Sept. 25 (AP)—Tehran newspapers carried conflicting dispatches tonight on fighting around the Persian Gulf port of Bushire between the government garrison and forces of the rebellious Qashqai tribesmen, who were variously reported to have penetrated the government defenses and to have been held off by the troops.

Scattered and unconfirmed newspaper reports on the uprising in Southern Iran Province of Fars, which the government has promised to put down "with an iron fist," gave this picture of the situation:

The garrison at Borazjan was under attack by tribesmen and was still resisting.

The towns of Abadeh and Shiraz remained calm and telegraph communications between Tehran and Shiraz were uninterrupted.

Sen. Tydings Urges Truman To Call
World Conference On Disarmament

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25 (AP)—Sen. Tydings (D-Md.) called upon President Truman tonight to convene an immediate international conference to discuss disarmament on a worldwide basis.

He said that no other nation commanded international respect comparable to that in which the United States is held and that "only President Truman has the prestige to call such a conference."

Unless this program of world disarmament xxx x x x is immediately undertaken," he said, "there is grave promise that the United Nations will be but a snare and a delusion, and that it is ultimately doomed as the most colossal and sad failure of all the institutions created by mankind throughout history."

"We are embracing again the same hypocrisy which bedeviled the League of Nations and in time wrecked it," Tydings said in an address before the Baltimore Advertiser Club.

Pointing to a clause in the United Nations Charter which says "all parties shall refrain from the threat or the use of armed force," he said: "If this clause is to be observed, do not the existing world-wide armaments make of it a mockery? Is not their very maintenance a threat to all other nations, great and small?"

This country, he continued, "should and must take the lead in promoting, and consummating" an arms reduction program because "no other nation can do so with equal hope of success."

"I do not believe that the United Nations is equipped to initiate successfully a task of this magnitude."

"We no longer have a choice in the matter. 'Either we outlaw war and make that mandate work, or there is no survival for anyone. Our problem is just that simple.'"

He said there should be no more disarmament "by example," such as we tried in 1922 when "we were the only example."

"We are concentrating too much on the control or even the prohibition of the use of the atomic bomb in future wars rather than on the prohibition of future wars in themselves," Tydings said, adding:

"By every rule of logic and necessity, atomic bombs are certain to be used if another war comes. Every realist knows that immediately upon the outbreak of World War III the treaty governing use of the atomic bomb will be set at naught. Every nation that can do so will at once begin its manufacture."

APOLOGIZES TO COURTGeorge Mueller Released
In Custody Of Counsel
To Attend Meeting

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 26 (Thursday) (AP)—Striking members of the power workers union last night refused to consider an offer from the Duquesne Light Company for settlement of their collective bargaining dispute until an injunction forbidding their strike is lifted.

The vote was taken at a secret meeting attended by President George L. Mueller, of the union, who earlier had apologized to the Allegheny County Common Pleas Court for referring to an injunction issued September 9 against the strike as "a scrap of paper."

Mueller, sentenced yesterday to a year in jail for contempt of court, was released in the custody of his counsel to attend the meeting and then was permitted to continue in his custody overnight.

Judge Harry H. Rowand at 11:36 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) adjourned court until 8:30 a. m. at which time Mueller was ordered to appear.

The union leader, smiling broadly, left the courtroom in company of his attorneys, Herman Lipsitz. Questioned by reporters he said: "No comment."

The vote by the independent power union seeking wage increases and other adjustments from the light company was 1,771 to 489 against considering the settlement proposal which was a compromise.

Industry Crippled
Mueller, in making his apology to the court, declared that he would urge members of his union to consider the proposal and to end their strike. But the workers voted only on the question of whether to consider the new proposal from the company, giving their negative answer.

The strike entered its third day today. Industry has been seriously crippled and thousands of workers made idle, but homes and public buildings continue to receive electricity. Street lights are on.

Mueller previously declined to apologize for allegedly calling an injunction forbidding the power strike "a scrap of paper" and ordering it started in spite of the court order.

The union leader entered the courtroom of Judge Harry H. Rowand of Allegheny county in custody of Sheriff Walter Monaghan and told the court:

"I want to say that in the statements I have made I meant no affront to this court, and I apologize to your honor if I appeared to be in contempt."

He asked that he be released to attend the union membership meeting session at Carnegie Hall and declared he would urge acceptance by the power workers union of a new offer from the Duquesne Light Company to end their dispute.

This dramatic turn came at the end of the second day of the power strike, which today had left more than 36,000 persons in many industries (Continued On Page 2, Col. 6)

Bodies Of Five U. S. Fliers Buried In Common Grave

High Military Officials Attend Rites For Men Slain By Yugoslavs

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (AP) — The bodies of five American fliers shot down by Yugoslavian fighter planes were buried today in a common grave in Arlington National Cemetery.

Simple Catholic and Protestant funeral services were read for the fliers, whose deaths caused an international furor, in the Fort Myer Chapel before their bodies were lowered into their oak-shaded grave.

With members of their families and friends in attendance, the funeral cortege of five coaches moved at slow cadence behind the Army Band and military escort over the sunny half-mile from the chapel to the grave site overlooking the Potomac and Capital.

Military Officials Attend

High military officials, including W. Stuart Symington, Assistant Secretary of War; Gen. Carl Spaatz, head of the Army Air Force; Gen. Thomas Handy, representing chief of staff; and Brig. Gen. Claude B. Ferenbach, commander of this military district, attended.

The band marched to the scene to beat of muffled drums.

The select group of 40 honorary pallbearers, chosen from all branches of the Air Force and the Army, stood at attention as the fliers' squad loosed three volleys and the bugler sounded taps.

Flags which draped the caskets were folded and handed to the five officers who accompanied the bodies from Italy. These men, in turn, presented the emblems to the families of the deceased.

Throughout the chapel and grave side ceremonies, planes from nearby military fields roared overhead.

The Catholic chaplain prayed in behalf of the fliers' survivors that God should "take away from their hearts the spirit of rebellion" and recited the Lord's Prayer, concluding, "Rest in peace."

Yugo Envoy Expresses Sorrow

Gen. Spaatz and Assistant Secretary Symington expressed their sorrow to each of the parents following the service.

Yugoslavian Ambassador Sava N. Kosanovic expressed his "personal sorrow" in a statement issued later.

"I should have liked to attend the funeral services," he said. "In doing so I know that I would have expressed also the sorrow and great regrets of the people and government of my country, and our feelings of sympathy for the bereaved families."

"But," the ambassador concluded, "no representative of my country was asked to attend. Perhaps my presence would only have added to the grief of the families. By my coming, the flag of Yugoslavia flew at half staff at the embassy today."

Allegany, Garrett Free From Traffic Deaths In August

Allegany and Garrett counties are among the ten Maryland counties which experienced a fatality-free month in August in traffic deaths, according to the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission.

During that time, there were 18 highway accidents in Allegany County, with 14 persons injured. Cumberland had one accident with no injuries, and Frostburg reported three accidents and two injuries.

In Garrett County during the same period, there were five traffic accidents, with four persons injured.

In the entire state, 29 persons were killed in 1,347 highway accidents, and an additional 728 were injured, the report stated.

Collisions with pedestrians accounted for 38 per cent of the total deaths during the month; collisions involving two or more vehicles accounted for 21 per cent; and motor vehicle collisions, 3 per cent.

During the first eight months of this year, 289 persons were killed, 8,514 were injured and 10,283 accidents were investigated in the state. Although incidence of deaths decreased 3 per cent as compared to the same period last year, injuries increased 35 per cent, and accidents increased 34 per cent.

Other counties which reported fatal traffic accidents in August are Caroline, Dorchester, Frederick, Howard, Kent, Queen Anne, Talbot and Worcester.

Decatur Street Is Opened For Traffic

Decatur street was opened completely for traffic Tuesday according to Commissioner Myers G. Light. The new thoroughfare, one of the finest in the city, is 30 feet wide and "as smooth as silk," city officials reported.

Work on the 1,350 foot stretch was officially completed September 18, when the pouring of cement was finished.

The job of tearing up the old street got underway July 28 and pouring of concrete started August 12. Over 10,000 yards of concrete were used, Light said.

Reese To Speak In Behalf Of Markey's Candidacy

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25. (AP) — Chairman B. Carroll Reese, of the Republican National Committee, has accepted an invitation to speak in the campaign of Dr. John Markey, GOP nominee for United States Senator from Maryland.

The occasion will be a subscription dinner and invitations issued for the affair said it would "mark the high spot in the campaign to elect an outstanding citizen and representative Republican to the United States Senate from Maryland."

Nation's First "Flying Post Office" Reaches Chicago After Stop At Dayton

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. (AP) — The nation's first "Flying Post Office," demonstrating for the benefit of the new five-cent air mail rate, how letters will be ready for delivery in the air, reached Chicago tonight.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly and Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan headed a list of officials who greeted Second Assistant Postmaster General Gail Sullivan and a dozen post office and Trans-World Airline officials who made the flight from Washington.

After an overnight stay here, the plane will take off for Pittsburgh and New York.

Ceremonies At Dayton

DAYTON, O., Sept. 25. (AP) — An estimated thousand spectators, including Orville Wright, watched the first "Flying Post Office" arrive at the Municipal Airport at 4 p. m. today from Washington, deliver and pick up mail and take off for Chicago an hour later.

Wright, who pioneered aviation, declined to speak at the brief ceremonies which combined celebration of the first day of sales of the new five-cent airmail stamp with inauguration of a new type of airmail service wherein mail was sorted aboard a plane for the first time.

The four-engined Skymaster, designed for a short time at Washington beyond the scheduled 1 p. m. takeoff, arrived about a half hour late with a cargo of 35,000 letters weighing 175 pounds.

Four air mail superintendents handled the mail, demonstrating how it was sorted and cancelled in flight in contrast to the established method of having clerks perform this work on the ground.

Twelve P-47 fighter planes from Lockbourne Air Base in Columbus, O., and two P-80 fighters from Wright Field escorted the mail plane for the last few miles of its trip here.

Mayor Edward Breen greeted the airborne post office for a delegation of dignitaries including Lt. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, commanding general of the Army Air Corps' Air Materiel Command.

Among the 2,000 Dayton letters which the plane loaded before taking off for Chicago was a packet delivered to the airport by City Manager P. O. Eichelberger in a helicopter. The odd-looking little craft was timed at four minutes in a demonstration of how quickly mail could be transported to downtown Riverfront Park.

The mail plane is scheduled to leave Chicago tomorrow for Pittsburgh and will go from there to New York.

Accused Slayer Weeps In His Cell

TAZEWELL, Va., Sept. 26. (AP) — Hacked Duane Beavers, 20-year-old ex-soldier charged with the murder and rape of Aileen Lockhart, Maxwell, was found crying in his cell in the Tazewell county jail today, the first time he has displayed any emotion since his arrest, Deputy Sheriff E. L. Mathews reported.

Beavers broke down about the time funeral services were held for the 15-year-old high school girl whose body was found early Monday just off the Tazewell Country Club golf course.

Mathews said Beavers, who was arrested last Monday afternoon, began crying after officers went into the cell to dress him. He had left him lying on the cot, his eyes closed as if in sleep and a pose he assumed since the first questioning was ended early Tuesday.

A hearing for Beavers may be held next week.

Number Of War Veterans To Aid In Jewish Appeal

A large number of former GI's in Cumberland have enlisted in the battle for survival of the remaining Jews of Europe, Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson, chairman of the United Jewish Appeal campaign here, announced yesterday.

Dr. Jacobson said a group of veterans of World War 2 have joined as active workers in the local drive in order to help raise a large fund for the $100,000 United Jewish Appeal for Refugees, Overseas Needs and Palestine, which is seeking to preserve and rebuild the lives of the 1,400,000 Jews in Europe who escaped extermination at the hands of the Nazis, Dr. Jacobson stated.

In recent days, Dr. Jacobson asserted, a number of veterans have asked to be given an opportunity to participate in raising funds in behalf of the Jewish survivors of Hitler. The GI's declared that the $100,000 United Jewish Appeal is part of the war for freedom and "until the people who suffered most and longest under Nazi oppression have been given a new life, the war against hatred and Nazism will not be won," Dr. Jacobson added.

Through the Jewish Welfare Fund of Maryland, the local Jewish people will take part in the unprecedented United Jewish Appeal campaign, which represents the largest drive ever undertaken by any philanthropic organization in this country.

Among the returning veterans who have assumed places of leadership in the local campaign, according to Dr. Jacobson, are, Robert Goldfine, Marvin Kaplan, Jack Hendricks, Norman Goldblatt, Paul Baral, Sumner Hirsch and Rabbi Maurice Feuer.

Marine Veteran Of Two Wars Gets Leave Pay

A former Cumberland Marine cashed what is believed to be the first terminal leave check received by a veteran in Allegheny County this week.

The check was received by Emil "Governor" Lehmann, 120 South Mechanic street, who served in both wars and who reported that he had his terminal leave papers in the mail "ten minutes after the post office put them on the counter the morning of August 26."

Lehmann planned his campaign "to be the first man to collect in Cumberland" carefully after he had made the boast to his friends in a tavern.

When the newspapers of August 25 announced the blanks would be distributed the next day, Lehmann arrived at the post office early Monday morning, got the blank, filled it out at his favorite tavern, had Mrs. Louise Dean, of the Red Cross notarize it and had it in the mail ten minutes later. Tuesday, 27 days later, he had his check.

"Authorization" For Radio Truck Sae Back-Dated

Stenographer Tells Problems She Followed Orders Of Higher-Ups

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (AP) — A government stenographer, Mrs. Ruth Campbell, told the House surplus property investigators today that higher-ups directed her to prepare an "authorization" for a surplus property sale four months after the deal was made.

Mrs. Campbell, formerly a stenographer with the War Assets Administration but now with another agency, testified that Walton Bostick, War Assets official, dictated the memorandum last April and ordered her to back-date it to December 18, 1945.

Committee Chairman Slaughter (D-Mo) has called the authorization a "forgery," but it bears no signature.

Radio Truck Sale Involved

It involved the sale of 300 or more radio trucks. Committee Counsel Hugh D. Wise contends the trucks were sold to Hallcrafters Company, Chicago, for $4,500, although a $7,500 price previously had been set.

Questions flew fast from the committee members when Mrs. Campbell told of two telephone calls this morning from WAA officials. She said the callers made no effort to influence her testimony, but sought information as to why she was being called as a witness.

The documents in question said William L. Post, Harold L. Naylor, and Earl Atkinson, of War Assets Corporation, and Charles Shapiro, of Hallcrafters Company, "verbally agreed in conference" that the price for the trucks should be $4,500 each.

Request Denied

Former head of the electronics division of surplus disposal, department yesterday any knowledge of the document. Mrs. Campbell said she thought Post was in the room at the time Bostick dictated it.

Edward W. Wilson, another WAA official, testified that Mrs. Campbell, now head of a private engineering firm, he signed a letter authorizing a Hallcrafters employee to allocate large surpluses from the Chicago signal depot.

Foss already has denied any knowledge of the letter. As Dillon testified, Foss arose in the audience and asked permission to question David Lewis, chaplain; and B. T. Keller, sergeant-at-arms.

The organization was effected with 54 paid up members, Graham said, adding that the members selected the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month for meeting dates. The next meeting will be held October 9.

One of the first undertakings of the new post, Graham reported, will be to sponsor a basketball team this fall.

A post was organized at Grantsville some time ago but disbanded, and a majority of the World War I veterans in that section joined other nearby Legion posts.

Graham was accompanied to Grantsville by Frank T. Powers, Mountain District Post Inspector.

Democrats Plan Strategy Session

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (AP) — Democratic regional leaders gathered today for a campaign strategy session tomorrow as Republican Chairman Carroll Reece labeled President Truman's first major campaign utterance "another shining example of the utter confusion of the present administration."

Eleven of the 12 members of the executive committee of the Democratic National Committee will meet with Chairman Robert E. Hannegan at a downtown hotel tomorrow to discuss final phases of the party's drive to retain control of Congress in the November balloting.

Only Mrs. Edward Heller, California, is expected to be absent because the group lunches with Hannegan and other members, who conduct an open business session in the afternoon and calls on President Truman.

This will give the Chief Executive another opportunity to go on record officially in this campaign as he extends greetings to thirty days of congressional nominees from 17 states. He asked for election of a Congress in sympathy with the party's 1944 platform, hit at what he called Republican "obstructionist tactics," and said the present-day emergency, which he compared with that at Pearl Harbor, would continue until "we can get peace and production."

Sugar Stamps 9, 10, 51 Acceptable Next Month

Sugar stamps 9, 10 and 51 will continue to be accepted beyond September 30, local CIO officials said yesterday after a recent flood of requests at the office for a renewal of the stamps that are not being accepted at local grocery stores at present.

The officials said Stamp No. 49 will expire September 30, after being extended for thirty days to July 31. Stamps 9 and 10, known as canning stamps, will be valid until October 31, and stamp 51 will be good until December 31, this year, officials said.

snapping on of a light switch produced a spark which ignited gas fumes in the fore part of the vessel to cause the explosion. The ship was en route from Sea Warren, N. J., to Norco, La. No oil was aboard.

Three were killed outright, one man being blown from the bow over the 45-foot bridge to the aft deck 200 feet away. One of the injured died at 3 a. m. another at 7 a. m. The ship was 170 miles off the Carolina coast when the explosion occurred at 10:30 p. m. The fire was brought under control at 12:25 a. m.

The injured seaman, James F. Faulkner, 50, Jacksonville, Fla., was taken to Walker Hospital at nearby Wilmington after the ship made port with its flag flying at half mast.

Sparring with Rep. Welch (R-Ohio), Kaiser expressed his doubts about the possibility of preventing wartime profits.

"If you can do it by a system of ship kitchens to take care of all of us, I'll be for it," he said. "If you want to put everyone in soup kitchens, so be it. One makes a mess, it's up to Congress to write the laws that way."

McCone and Kaiser both challenged maritime commission figures purporting to show huge shipbuilding profits in wartime in proportion to capital invested.

Other temporary officers are Luther Huff, first vice commander; Veri Edwards, second vice commander; B. F. Epstein, adjutant; Charles O. Keller, finance officer; T. O. Logger Who "Shot Up" Shanty Is Released

Donald Thompson, 22, has been released after a tentative charge of malicious destruction of property was held in abeyance by the state's attorney's office. Thompson was arrested Monday night after he shot several holes in the side of his shanty at a Polish Mountain logging camp.

Thompson said when he was arrested that he had merely wanted a little ventilation in the shanty and Thomas Smith, the camp owner, said yesterday that the men could do anything they wished with their shanties as far as he was concerned — "tear them down one day and build them again the next."

Thompson told authorities he had served in the Army seven months but had received a discharge because he was nervous. He has been working in the lumber mill for the past four weeks.

trial lines in an 817-square mile area.

Judge Rowand told Mueller: "We heard your apology. Mr. Mueller noted your comments. We will permit you to go to attend the meeting with the hope that you will carry out your promises in good faith and report favorably to us."

The light company announced last night that its new offer to the union included a five per cent wage increase described as "additional" to an 18 cents an hour raise given the workers in April; a revision of the pension plan, additional vacations for hourly employees and other adjustments.

The union had been seeking a 20 per cent wage increase. The present pay rate, the union said, is $11.8 an hour and the 20 per cent would have brought this up to $14.16.

Sympathy Wave Develops

The court told the 35-year-old unionist that its action in the power strike was in the public interest and for the public welfare. Judge Rowand asked Mueller to report back to him from the union meeting, as soon as he could, "so that we do not have to stay up too late."

Meanwhile, a strike sympathy wave developed among unionists perturbed over the court's injunction prohibiting the strike and by the summary incarceration of Mueller.

Unionists asserted there is no law to make men work. Noting that the issue was never been decided by the United States Supreme Court, both CIO and AFL unions sought to join the unaffiliated utility union in the case.

Opposing the union view, the city argued labor had no right to "strike against the people" and "endanger public health and safety."

The strike sympathy wave began among CIO employees of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation. By the day's end 8,000 of the firm's 12,000 workers in two Pittsburgh plants were idle.

Employees of the big Westinghouse Electric Corporation plant in East Pittsburgh called a meeting of 16,500 members for this afternoon "if Mueller is still in jail."

The executive board of the CIO Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers at the plant also proposed

Optimist Club To Receive Charter

MaJ. Roy Seymour, counselor of Optimist International and one of the organizers of Cumberland's Optimist Club, delivered his final address here last night when he spoke at the weekly luncheon in YMCA on "Friend of the Boy" and how the idea is associated with the aims of the organization.

As the club's 88 members prepared to receive a charter this Friday night at the Shriver Country Club, MaJ. Seymour outlined the objectives of Optimist clubs, and their relationship to young boys in the community.

Following the dinner, plans for participating in the Jones Family Fund, being sponsored by the Cumberland News, were discussed by members and turned over to the Boys Work Committee for consideration.

Six new members were inducted into the local club last night, sending the membership quota of 80 over by six. They are: Earl Nonnenmarm, Charles Park, Edward S. Keller, Bernard Whitacre, Robert Dudley and Duke Lee.

In the membership contest, the club's vice president announced that at the present time the "Soda-Jerks," captained by Charles Keller, are leading the "Embalmers," captained by Vincent Leasure, by 140 to 70 points.

At a session of the Boys Work Committee following the regular meeting, a contribution to the Jones Family Fund was recommended to the board of governors to be acted on at their next meeting.

Several Hundred Visit Milk Plant

Several hundred persons from Cumberland, Cresaptown, Frostburg, and Keyser and Piedmont, W. Va., attended the formal opening yesterday of the new Barton milk pasteurizing plant at Pinto, constructed by Harry J. Barton, who has been in the dairy business in Allegany county since 1925.

The afternoon program, beginning at 2 o'clock, included movies of the milk pasteurizing process. Plant employees conducted tours of inspection through each room of the attractive one-story brick building during the afternoon and evening.

A speaking program was held at 8 p. m., with Barton acting as master of ceremonies. Short talks were given by Mayor Thomas S. Post, Dr. Joseph F. Franklin, city and county health officer, and J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian.

Mrs. John Thompson, Cresaptown, who was Barton's first customer and has remained a steady customer for 20 years, was presented with a rosette corsage by Mrs. Barton.

Jimmie Keister, Grantsville, played trumpet solo, and music was furnished by a local orchestra in the large garage of the plant, which was used as an auditorium for the entertainment program. The Smith triplets of Cumberland played accordion selections, and an exhibition of jitterbugging was given by a young negro couple, Joe Hollingsworth and Mary Catherine Taylor, this city.

Prizes for games included 75 quarts of milk, eight dozen eggs and several bushels of apples.

Greeks Charge

Winston Churchill announced they would remain to preserve order and they were the chief factor in stopping the civil war that broke out when the leftist EAM arose in revolt in December, 1944, after the liberation.

Greek government sources in London said that "military operations on a fairly large scale could be expected for some time. They added that the Greek Third Army had been assigned to Thessaly and the Fourth Army to Salonika.

These sources said that the conflict stemmed from "militant Communism encouraged from the other side of the border."

Bodies Of Five U. S. Fliers Buried In Common Grave

High Military Officials Attend Rites For Men Slain By Yugoslavs

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — The bodies of five American fliers shot down by Yugoslavian fighter planes were buried with military honors today in a common grave in Arlington National Cemetery.

Simple Catholic and Protestant funeral services were read for the fliers, whose deaths caused an international furor, in the Port Myer Chapel before their bodies were lowered into their oak-shaded grave.

With members of their families and friends in attendance, the funeral cortege of five caskets moved at slow cadence behind the Army Band and military escort over the sunny half-mile from the chapel to the grave site overlooking the Potomac and Capitol.

Military Officials Attend

High military officials, including W. Stuart Symington, Assistant Secretary of War; Gen. Carl Spaatz, head of the Army Air Force; Gen. Thomas Handy, representing chief-of-staff; and Brig. Gen. Claude B. Ferenbaugh, commander of this military district, attended.

The band marched to the scene to the sound of muffled drums.

The select group of 40 honorary pallbearers, chosen from all branches of the Air Force and the Air Transport Command, stood stiffly at attention as the firing squad loaded three volleys and the busier sounded taps.

Flags which draped the caskets were folded and handed to the five officers who accompanied the bodies from Italy. These men, in turn, presented the emblems to the families of the deceased.

Throughout the chapel and grave side ceremonies, planes from nearby military fields roared overhead.

The Catholic chaplain prayed in behalf of the fliers' survivors that God should "take away from their hearts the spirit of rebellion" and recited the Lord's Prayer, concluding "Rest in peace."

Yugo Envoy Expresses Sorrow

Gen. Spaatz and Assistant Secretary Symington expressed their sorrow to each of the parents following the service.

Yugoslavian Ambassador Sava N. Kowacovic expressed his "personal sorrow" in a statement issued later.

"I should have liked to attend the funeral services," he said. "In doing so I know that I would have expressed also the sorrow and great regrets of the people and government of my country, and our feelings of sympathy for the bereaved families."

"But," the ambassador concluded, "no representative of my country was asked to attend. Perhaps my presence would only have added to the grief of the families. By my order the flag of Yugoslavia flew at half staff at the embassy today."

Allegany, Garrett Free From Traffic Deaths In August

Allegany and Garrett counties are among the ten Maryland counties which experienced a fatality-free month in August in traffic deaths, according to the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission.

During that time there were 18 highway accidents in Allegany County, with 14 persons injured. Cumberland had one accident with no injuries, and Frostburg reported three accidents and two injuries.

In Garrett County during the same period, there were five traffic accidents, with four persons injured.

In the entire state, 29 persons were killed in 1,347 highway accidents, and an additional 728 were injured, the report stated.

Collisions with pedestrians accounted for 38 per cent of the total killed during the month; collisions involving two or more vehicles also amounted to 38 per cent; while non-collision accidents accounted for 21 per cent, and motor vehicle-bicycle collisions, 3 per cent.

During the first eight months of this year, 258 persons were killed, 814 were injured, and 10,268 accidents were investigated in the state. Although incidence of deaths decreased 2 per cent as compared to the same period last year, injuries increased 35 per cent, and accidents investigated increased 34 per cent.

Other counties which reported no fatal traffic accidents in August are Caroline, Dorchester, Frederick, Howard, Kent, Queen Anne, Talbot and Worcester.

Decatur Street Is Opened For Traffic

Decatur street was opened completely for traffic Tuesday according to Commissioner Myers G. Light. The new thoroughfare, one of the finest in the city, is 30 feet wide and "as smooth as silk," city officials reported.

Work on the 1,350 foot stretch was officially completed September 18, when the pouring of concrete was finished.

The job of tearing up the old street got underway July 28 and pouring of concrete started August 12. Over 10,000 yards of concrete were used. Light said.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25. (AP) — Chairman B. Carroll Reese of the Republican National Committee, has accepted an invitation to speak in Baltimore October 3 in behalf of the candidacy of D. John Markey, GOP nominee for United States senator from Maryland.

FLYING POST OFFICE—Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan (speaking on platform, center) dedicates the nation's first flying post office, a C-54 equipped to sort mail en route, during a ceremony at National Airport, Washington, yesterday. The ship will make stops at Dayton, Chicago, Pittsburgh and New York on its initial flight.

Nation's First "Flying Post Office" Reaches Chicago After Stop At Dayton

CHICAGO, Sept. 25 (AP) — The nation's first "Flying Post Office," demonstrating for the benefit of the new five-cent air mail rate how letters will be ready for delivery in the air, reached Chicago tonight.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly and Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan headed a list of officials who greeted Second Assistant Postmaster General Gail Sullivan and a dozen post office and Trans-World Airline officials who made the flight from Washington.

After an overnight stay here, the plane will take off for Pittsburgh and New York.

Ceremonies At Dayton

DAYTON, O., Sept. 25 (AP) — An estimated thousand spectators, including Orville Wright, watched the first "Flying Post Office" arrive at the Municipal Airport at 4 p. m. today from Washington, deliver and pick up mail and take off for Chicago en route.

Wright, who pioneered aviation, declined to speak at the brief ceremonies which combined celebration of the first day of sales of the new five-cent airmail stamp with inauguration of a new type of airmail service wherein mail was sorted aboard a plane for the first time.

The four-engine Skymaster, delayed for a short time at Washington beyond the scheduled 1 p. m. takeoff, arrived about a half hour late with a cargo of 35,000 letters weighing 716 pounds.

Four air mail superintendents handled the mail, demonstrating how it was sorted and cancelled in flight in contrast to the established method of having clerks perform this work on the ground.

Twelve P-47 fighter planes from Lockbourne Air Base in Columbus, O., and two P-50 fighters from Wright Field escorted the mail plane for the last few miles of its trip.

Mayor Edward Breen greeted the airborne post office for a delegation of dignitaries including Lt. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, commanding general of the Army Air Corps' Air Materiel Command.

Among the 2,000 Dayton letters which the plane loaded before taking off for Chicago was a packet delivered to the airport by City Manager F. O. Elchberger in a helicopter. The odd-looking little craft was timed at four minutes in a demonstration of how quickly mail could be transported to downtown.

The mail plane is scheduled to leave Chicago tomorrow for Pittsburgh and will go from there to New York.

Accused Slayer Weeps In His Cell

TAZEWELL, Va., Sept. 25 (AP) — Harold Duane Beavers, 20-year-old ex-convict charged with the murder and rape of Allen Lockhart, Maxwell, was found crying in his cell in the Tazewell County jail today, the first time he has displayed any emotion since his arrest, Deputy Sheriff E. L. Mathews reported.

Beavers broke down about the time funeral services were held for the 15-year-old high school girl whose body was found early Monday just off the Tazewell Country Club golf course.

Mathews said Beavers, who was arrested late Monday afternoon, began crying after officers went into the cell to dress him. They had left him lying on the cot, his eyes closed as if asleep and a pose he assumed since the first questioning was ended early Tuesday.

A hearing for Beavers may be held next week.

Only Mrs. Edward Heller, California, is expected to be absent when the group lunches with Hannegan and other Cabinet members, conducts an open business session in the afternoon and calls on President Truman.

This will give the Chief Executive another opportunity to go on record politically in this campaign as he did yesterday in greeting 39 Democratic congressional nominees from 17 states. He asked for election of a Congress in sympathy with the party's 1944 platform, hit at what he called the "Republican 'let's get it' tactics," and said the present-day emergency, which he compared with that at Pearl Harbor, would continue until "we can get peace and production."

Sugar Stamps 9, 10, 51 Acceptable Next Month

Sugar stamps 9, 10 and 51 will continue to be accepted beyond September 30, local OPA officials said yesterday, after a recent flood of requests at the office for a renewal of the stamps that are not being accepted at local grocery stores at present.

The officials said Stamp No. 49 will expire September 30, after being extended for thirty days on July 31. Stamps 9 and 10, known as rationing stamps, will be valid until October 31, and stamp 51 will be good until December 31, this year, officials said.

Six Men Die

snapping on of a light switch produced a spark which ignited gas fumes in the fore part of the vessel to cause the explosion. The ship was en route from Sea Warren, N. J., to Norco, La. No oil was aboard.

Three were killed outright, one man being blown from the bow over the 45-foot bridge to the aft deck 200 feet away. One of the injured died at 3 a. m., another at 7 a. m. The ship was 170 miles off the Carolina coast when the explosion occurred at 10:30 p. m. The fire was brought under control at 12:25 a. m.

The injured seaman, James P. Faulkner, 30, Jacksonville, Fla., was taken to Walker Hospital at nearby Wilmington after the ship made port with its flag flying at half mast.

members still uncertain as to how he should act financially.

Sparling with Rep. Weichel (R-Ohio), Kaiser expressed his doubts about the possibility of preventing wartime profits.

"If you can do it by a system of ship schemes to take care of all of us, I'll be for it," he said. "If you want to put everyone in soup kitchens, so no one makes a dime, it's up to Congress to write the laws that way."

McCone and Kaiser both challenged maritimes commission figures purporting to show huge shipbuilding profits in wartime in proportion to capital invested.

Grantsville Legion Post Is Organized

Organization of Grantsville Post, American Legion, was effected last night with the election of temporary officers, according to Samuel A. Graham, Mountain District vice commander.

Application for the charter will be put before the Mountain District meeting October 6 at Lonaconing.

Harvey Gortner, Grantsville garage operator, was named temporary post commander. Other temporary officers are Luther Huff, first vice commander; Veri Edwards, second vice commander; B. F. Epstein, adjutant; Charles O. Keller, finance officer; T. O. Broadwater, historian; David Lewis, chaplain; and B. T. Keller, sergeant-at-arms.

The organization was effected with 54 paid up members. Graham said, adding that the members selected the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month for meeting dates. The next meeting will be held October 9.

One of the first undertakings of the new post, Graham reported, will be to sponsor a basketball team this fall.

A post was organized at Grantsville some time ago but disbanded, and a majority of the World War I veterans in that section joined other nearby Legion posts.

Graham was accompanied to Grantsville by Frank T. Powers, Mountain District Post Inspector.

Logger Who "Shot Up" Shanty Is Released

Donald Thompson, 22, has been released after a tentative charge of malicious destruction of property was held in abeyance by the state's attorney. Thompson was arrested Monday night after he shot several holes in the side of his shanty at a Polish Mountain logging camp.

Thompson said when he was arrested that he had merely wanted a little ventilation in the shanty and Thomas Smith, the camp owner, said yesterday that the men could do anything they wished with their shanties as far as he was concerned — "tear them down one day and build them again the next."

Thompson told authorities he had served in the Army seven months but had received a discharge because he was nervous. He has been working at the lumber mill for the past four weeks.

Union Refuses

trial lines in an 817-square mile area.

Judge Rowand told Mueller: "We heard your apology, Mr. Mueller, and noted your comments. We will permit you to go to attend the meeting with the hope that you will carry out your promises in good faith and report favorably to us."

The light company announced last night that its new offer to the union included a five per cent wage increase described as "additional" to an 18 cents an hour raise given the workers in April, a revision of the pension plan, additional vacations for hourly employees and other adjustments.

The union had been seeking a 20 per cent wage increase. The present pay rate, the union said, is $1.18 an hour and the 20 per cent would have brought this up to $1.41.

The court told the 35-year-old unionist that its action in the power strike was in the public interest and for the public welfare. Judge Rowand asked Mueller to report back to him from the union meeting, as soon as he could, "so that we do not have to stay up too late."

Meanwhile, a strike sympathy wave developed among unionists perturbed over the court's injunction prohibiting the strike and by the summary incarceration of Mueller.

Unionists asserted there is no law to make men work. Noting that the issue has never been decided by the United States Supreme Court, both CIO and AFL unions sought to join the unaffiliated utility union in the case.

Opposing the union view, the city argued labor had no right to "strike against the people" and "endanger public health and safety."

The strike sympathy wave began among CIO employees of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation. By the day's end 6,000 of the firm's 12,000 workers in two Pittsburgh plants were idle.

CIO employees of the big West Inghouse Electric Corporation plant in East Pittsburgh called a meeting of 15,000 members for this afternoon "if Mueller is still in jail."

The executive board of the CIO Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers at the plant also proposed

Optimist Club To Receive Charter

Maj. Roy Seymour, counselor of Optimist International and one of the organizers of Cumberland's Optimist Club, delivered his final address here last night when he spoke at the weekly luncheon in YMCA on "Friend of the Boy" and how the idea is associated with the aims of the organization.

As the club's 86 members prepared to receive a charter this Friday night at the Shrine Country Club, Maj. Seymour outlined the objectives of Optimist clubs, and their relationship to young boys in the community.

Following the dinner, plans for participating in the Jones Family Fund, being sponsored by the Cumberland News were discussed by members, and turned over to the Boys Work Committee for consideration.

Six new members were inducted into the local club last night, sending the membership quota of 80 over by six. They are Earl Nonnenmann, Charles Park, Edward S. Keller, Bernard Wintacore, Robert Dudley and Duke Hies.

In the membership contest, the club's vice president announced that at the present time the "Soda Jerks," captained by Charles Keech, are leading the "Embalmers," captained by Vincent Lesauere, by 140 to 70 points.

At a session of the Boys Work Committee following the regular meeting, a contribution to the Jones Family Fund was recommended to the board of governors, to be acted on at their next meeting.

Several Hundred Visit Milk Plant

Several hundred persons from Cumberland, Cresaptown, Frostburg, and Keyser and Piedmont, W. Va., attended the formal opening yesterday of the new Barton milk pasteurizing plant at Pinto, constructed by Harry J. Barton, who has been in the dairy business in Allegany county since 1925.

The afternoon program, beginning at 2 o'clock, included movies of the milk pasteurizing process. Plant employees conducted tours of inspection through each room of the attractive one-story brick building during the afternoon and evening.

A speaking program was held at 8 p. m. with Barton acting as master of ceremonies. Short talks were given by Mayor Thomas S. Post, Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer, and J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian.

Mrs. John Thompson, Cresaptown, who was Barton's first customer and has remained a steady customer for 20 years, was presented with a rosebud corsage by Mrs. Barton.

Jimmie Keister, Grantsville, played trumpet solos, and music was furnished by a local orchestra in the large garage of the plant, which was used as an auditorium for the entertainment program. The Smith triplets of Cumberland played accordion selections, and an exhibition of juggling was given by a young negro couple, Joe Hollingsworth and Mary Catherine Taylor, this city.

Prizes for games included 75 quarts of milk, eight dozen eggs and several bushels of apples.

Winston Churchill announced they would remain to preserve order and they were the chief factor in stopping the civil war that broke out when the leftist EAM arose in revolt in December, 1944, after the liberation.

Greek government sources in London said that "military operations on a fairly large scale" could be expected for some time. They added that the Greek Third Army had been assigned to Thessaly and the Fourth Army to Salonika.

These sources said that the conflict stemmed from "militant Communism encouraged from the other side of the border."

Judges Sentence Three Miners To Prison Terms

Smith, Helmick And Wilson Are Released On Bond Pending Appeal

OAKLAND, Sept. 25 — Three miners, indicted on charges of riot and unlawful assembly in the attack on a coal company official and a young farmer near Grantsville last May 8, were found guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court here today by Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper.

The miners are Robert Smith and Edward Helmick, both of Blaine, W. Va., and Woodrow Wilson, Kitzmiller. Each was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction, but the three were released on $1,000 bond each pending an appeal to the Court of Appeals by Edward J. Ryan, defense attorney.

Testimony in the trial, which was conducted by the judges without a jury, at Ryan's request, was completed at about 11 a. m., and the verdict was handed down half an hour later.

The men were charged with attacking John Keister, Grantsville vice president and general manager of the Burnell Coal Company, and Roy E. Jenkins, 28, a farmer and war veteran, during the mine stoppage last May.

Testimony showed that approximately 100 men in a group of pickets started driving in 15 cars and trucks toward the Burnell Coal Company mine, and that they stopped George Newman, of near Grantsville, who was driving a truck loaded with coal from the mine to the tipple near Grantsville.

Newman testified that they threatened to upset his truck unless he turned around and drove back to the mine, and that the caravan followed him on the return trip.

On the way, Newman said, they met Keister, who was driving in a car toward Grantsville. The 100 men got out of their cars, and Keister was dragged from his car and beaten, according to testimony.

Later, testimony showed, the group of men attacked Jenkins, whom they met driving along the road toward Grantsville, and also beat him up. The caravan of pickets arrived at the mine but no damage was done there, although the tipple was forced to unload its coal.

Smith, Helmick and Wilson admitted that they were in the mob of pickets but denied taking any part in the attacks on the two men.

The courtroom was crowded this morning with interested spectators. Prosecution witnesses called during the trial, which began Tuesday, included Keister, Constable Charles Zellers and State Trooper Blair J. Buckel.

Pioneers Honor Six Retiring At Celanese

Tribute was paid to six retiring members of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America last night by the Celanese Pioneers, at the club's annual banquet held at the Elk's home.

Five of the six members attended and a sixth sent his regrets from Akron, Ohio. The five include, John R. "Sparky" Dick, Edmund B. "Dunny" Dunnicliff, William E. "Ed" Lehman, Reuber C. "Rube" Morton, and Sanford B. "San" Robinette. The sixth member is John L. "Bud" Atkinson.

Fred T. Small, manager of the local plant, was introduced as the No. 1 Pioneer, spoke on the growth of the Amcelle plant and praised the work of the six men retiring.

A nomination committee was named to select candidates for the election to be held in December, with officers to assume their duties January 1, 1947.

The committee included Howard Taylor, chairman; Irby Rutherford, Joseph Shugrue, George Baker and Dorothy Manley.

Local Strike Leaders Face Loss Of Jobs

Maurice Milberg, manager of the Cumberland Undergarment Company, reported yesterday the company does not plan to recall 12 workers because they were leaders in the recent strike.

Milberg termed the strike, which had operations at the plant for two months, a breach of contract between the company and the International Ladies Garment Workers Union. He said the union has been informed of the company's position and added it is possible the dispute may be arbitrated.

Only 60 of the 172 odd workers have been recalled, Milberg said, as the plant has been unable to get materials for full operations.

C. E. Stutzman, president of the Allegany Trades Council, said the group will insist that the ILGWU live up to its promise to put all employees back to work.

Flintstone Woman Reports On Injury Of Poling Boy Here

No charges were placed against Mrs. Charlotte M. Thumel, Flintstone, who told police yesterday morning she was the driver of the car which struck Russell Leo Poling, 10, 331 Dorn avenue, at the intersection of Baltimore avenue and Park streets early Monday night.

Mrs. Thumel, wife of Abraham B. Thumel, told Detective Edwin R. Liya she read about the accident in a local newspaper and reported to police headquarters to give her version of the accident.

She told Detective Liya the boy was struck as he was attempting to catch a bus to return home from Central YMCA and added she stopped her car, helped the boy into the car and started to the hospital.

Mrs. Thumel said she let the lad out of the car at Williams street after he insisted he was unhurt and added she wanted to take him home after he declined to go to the hospital but allowed him to alight from the vehicle after he insisted on walking. Mrs. Bertie Jenkins, 260 Maryland avenue, was riding with Mrs. Thumel when the mishap occurred, police said.

The license plate of the car Mrs. Thumel was driving was 305-797, and not 305-787, as was first reported, police said. The latter car is registered in the name of Hilton B. Nehouse, Germantown.

The Poling lad was reported in a "good" condition in Memorial Hospital. The results of X-rays taken yesterday morning to determine the extent of possible chest injuries were not available last evening.

A report of the accident was also filed yesterday with the state commissioner of motor vehicles.

Woman Fined $100 On Charge Of Fraud

Miss Waneta P. Warnick, 300 South Lee Street, was fined $100 and cost yesterday by Magistrate Frank A. Ferfew, when she was found guilty of accepting unemployment insurance while employed at Memorial Hospital.

Miss Warnick who appeared in Trial Magistrates court for the hearing, pleaded not guilty to the charges, but was accused of making false statements to obtain unemployment benefits.

Assistant State's Attorney Paul M. Flecher, said the defendant worked at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant from May, 1945, until last February when she was discharged because of irregular attendance at work.

Testimony shows that she went to work at Memorial hospital June 20 and while still working there drew two checks dated July 8 and 15 each for $19. She was asked to return the money before charges were preferred by unemployment authorities here.

William H. Geppert represented Miss Warnick at the hearing.

Local Man

(Continued from Page 16) His brother declared last night that the seaman has entered suit against the Japanese Government for suffering and punishment that he endured while a prisoner.

In April of this year, Wilson returned to Cumberland for the first time since his experiences off the coast of Florida in 1927. He spent two months at the home of his brother, at 308 Virginia avenue, and then returned to Baltimore where he was again assigned to a ship headed for the Philippines.

Upon return to his country, Wilson learned that his 11-year-old daughter was fatally burned in a Baltimore fire in 1942. The fire was a result of a gas stove explosion, the brother declared last night.

In June of this year, after he returned from the Philippines, the two brothers met in Baltimore for a short time, and again Wilson sailed for Luzon, and returned to this country via South America.

Just a couple of weeks ago he wired his mother that he was in this country, and last night the family was greatly surprised to learn that he was in his third sea disaster. "Why he's in this country now," his brother exclaimed.

True to his roaming fashion, however, Wilson had again gone to sea, this time on the Tanker Bennington and was sailing down the Atlantic coast taking a cargo of oil to Louisiana, when according to crewmen, a spark from a light switch ignited gas fumes in the fore part of the vessel and caused the explosion.

Wilson was in Hagerstown, and came to this city with his family when he was about 10. He remained here three years, and then enlisted in the army to serve in World War I. He is often referred to as the "youngest soldier from the state of Maryland to serve in World War I," his brother declared last night.

During the war, Wilson served in two campaigns, but he was injured once. In his first mishap at sea, he suffered injuries to his right arm.

In the sinking of the Philippines, he escaped injury, his brother declared, but the Jap prison camp left a mark on his health, his brother said last night.

The Associated Press reporter yesterday gave Wilson credit for assisting him in getting the story of the burning ship and the number of casualties.

It was while talking to the reporter, that he declared, "I am a veteran of 29 years at sea, but I'm through with tankers."

Meat Shortage Hits School Cafeterias

Stating that the meat shortage has been reflected in county school cafeterias, Charles L. Kopp, county superintendent of schools, said that parents and students should be patient until October, when the meat situation may improve considerably, according to Office of Price Administration officials in New York.

Students at Allegany High School where a canned meat substitute was served one day last week, balked at buying the item and questioned the necessity of using substitutes when real meat on the hoof abounds in the Cumberland area.

Although school officials anticipated the meat shortage a number of weeks ago and applied to the OPA for a slaughter permit, they were informed that slaughter permits are being issued only to persons who hold such permits prior to October, 1946.

The school normally uses 5,000 pounds of meat a week, most of it ground beef, to feed approximately 10,000 students in county school cafeterias, and Kopp said that both the beef and a slaughter permit are available and waiting for the word to start operations.

Meat shortage, Kopp was emphatic in stating that all school officials are to observe the letter of the law.

Postwar Shortages

Every classroom is being utilized every period of the day and a number of afternoon classes have been scheduled. Laboratory periods, formerly confined to the afternoons, now are held throughout the day and some even are scheduled in the evening after dinner. Classes do not end until 5:15 p. m.

Teaching Staff Increased
Nine additional faculty members have increased the faculty to a total of 30, and with this increase and the rearrangement and increase in the number of classes the student does not suffer from a lack of individual attention, "something we have always believed in," Dr. Church said. Classes, however, are larger than normal.

During the war, Potomac State was "almost a female academy," Dr. Church remarked, but this year men outnumbered women by three to one. In pre-war years there was one woman to two men.

Included in Potomac State's enrollment this year are 385 ex-GIs, with all but 25 or 30 getting their education under the GI Bill or Public Law 16, which contains educational provisions for disabled veterans. Engineering and business administration are the favorite courses.

The 25 or 30 veterans attending Potomac State at their own expense are conserving their benefits under the GI Bill for later education, such as medical and other professional training.

Students taking advantage of the GI Bill are furnished with all textbooks, materials, laboratory supplies, paper and pencils at government expense.

Cafeteria System Introduced
Feeding the increased number of students also has brought another change to Potomac State with the dining hall now operating on the cafeteria system for the first time.

The meat situation is terrible, Dr. Church said, adding laughingly that he hires two men to handle that subject. Students, however, have a fine attitude and realize the situation is no better elsewhere.

At State Teachers College, Frostburg, five more instructors have been added to the faculty, boosting the total to 16. In addition there are six credit teachers in the elementary schools.

Besides the large enrollment, the junior college program has been enlarged and full programs are now being offered in mathematics and the languages.

A full program is being provided for student nurses from Memorial Hospital and extension courses are being offered at the hospital four evenings weekly in sociology and psychology. Classes also will be offered in Cumberland and Frostburg to teachers who do not have degrees and are teaching in the elementary schools.

Extension Courses Offered
Extension courses in American literature and Spanish are being offered in Cumberland. The literature course will be taught at the Cumberland Free Public Library on Monday and Wednesday from 4 to 5:15 p. m., and Spanish will be taught from 6:30 to 9 p. m. on Wednesdays at the library. The courses will begin next week.

Physical science, art, geography of Asia and Spanish will be offered as extension courses at the college. Science and art will be offered Tuesday evenings, beginning next week, and the other two courses will be taught on Saturdays, beginning this week.

Miss Compton said the textbook situation at State Teachers College is not too bad. She pointed out that texts for most departments were ordered early in the spring and that most of them have arrived. There is a shortage in some textbooks, however, and they are being purchased from the publishers and secondhand firms.

A firm believer in individual attention for students, Miss Compton said that there are more than 30 students in only two classes.

Faculty members, she said, have expressed the opinion that there is

Word was received in Moorefield of the death of Lloyd S. Marshall in Los Angeles, September 22, from a heart attack and asthma.

Mr. Marshall was the son of the late John H. Marshall and Lucy Landacre Marshall and was 47 years old. He was born in Moorefield and attended school here but has not been back in the 24 or 25 years since he left the South Branch Valley.

In those years, his life was quite eventful for in addition to studying and continuing his education, he became an author, research chemist and inventor. Among his chemical formulas were a motion picture film process for the preservation of film, an anti-knock gasoline, a third dimensional camera, phosphorescent paint in colors and a beauty cream made of garden vegetables.

Mr. Marshall is survived by a sister, Mrs. Bernice Heltzel, a half sister, Mrs. Marion Deahl, and two half brothers, John and Robert Marshall.

Marriage Is Announced

The double ring ceremony was read in the Keezletown Methodist parsonage by the bride's pastor, Rev. C. C. Bush.

The bride wore a winter blue wool suit with black accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Miss Fay Earmann, Washington, D. C., a cousin of the bride, was maid-of-honor and wore a blue suit with black accessories and tall-man roses.

Maynard T. Armentrout, also a cousin of the bride, was best man. Mr. Hinegardner is a graduate of Keezletown High School, attended Madison College and the University of Virginia.

Mr. Hinegardner was graduated from Mathias High School in 1942. In October of that year, he enlisted in the Marine Corps and spent 29 months in the service, 22 months overseas. He is now employed as a laboratory technician with Merck and Company.

After a short wedding trip, the young couple returned to the bride's home, where they will reside for the present.

Fire Damages Truck
A pick-up truck belonging to Clyde Fiddle was damaged by fire late Monday night when the car burst into flames while in the garage at the rear of the restaurant.

The Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company responded to the alarm and was able to save the garage and the truck.

Clean Out Channel
The bulldozer belonging to Van Meter Fisher finished two weeks work in the South Fork of the South Branch River strengthening the banks and clearing out the channel. The work was done between the B. and O. Bridge and the bridge on U. S. Route 220.

An island that had formed in the river was pushed up against the north bank of the river to protect the town in the event of flood water. The channel has been changed to the south side of the river.

The Town of Moorefield spent approximately $1,000 on the work. O. G. Bean is having some more work done below the river bridge.

Judges Sentence Three Miners To Prison Terms

Smith, Helmick And Wilson Are Released On Bond Pending Appeal

OAKLAND, Sept. 25 — Three miners, indicted on charges of riot and unlawful assembly in the attack on a coal company official and a young farmer near Grantsville last May 8, were found guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court here today by Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper.

The miners are Robert Smith and Edward Helmick, both of Blaine, W. Va., and Woodrow Wilson, Kitzmiller. Each was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction, but the three were released on $1,000 bond each pending an appeal to the Court of Appeals by Edward J. Ryan, defense attorney.

Testimony in the trial, which was conducted by the judges without a jury, at Ryan's request, was completed at about 11 a. m., and the verdict was handed down half an hour later.

The men were charged with attacking John Keister, Grantsville, vice president and general manager of the Burnell Coal Company, and Roy E. Jenkins, 26, a farmer and war veteran, during the mine stoppage last May.

Testimony showed that approximately 100 men in a group of pickets started driving in 15 cars and trucks toward the Burnell Coal Company mine, and that they stopped George Newman, of near Grantsville, who was driving a truck loaded with coal from the mine to the tipple near Grantsville.

Newman testified that they threatened to upset his truck unless he turned around and drove back to the mine, and that the caravan followed him on the return trip.

On the way, Newman said, they met Keister, who was driving in a car toward Grantsville. The 100 men got out of their cars, and Keister was dragged from his car and beaten, according to testimony.

Later, testimony showed, the group of men attacked Jenkins, whom they met driving along the road toward Grantsville, and also beat him up. The caravan of pickets arrived at the mine but no damage was done there, although the truck driver was forced to unload his coal.

Smith, Helmick and Wilson admitted that they were in the mob of pickets but denied taking any part in the attacks on the two men.

The courtroom was crowded this morning with interested spectators. Prosecution witnesses called during the trial, which began Tuesday, included Keister, Constable Charles Zellers and State Trooper Blair J. Buckel.

Five of the six members attended and a sixth sent his regrets from Akron, Ohio. The five include, John R. Sparks, Dick Edmund, B. "Durr" Dummick, William E. "Ed" Lehman, Reuben C. "Rube" Morton, and Sanford B. "San" Robinsonette. The sixth member is John L. "Bud" Atkinson.

Fred T. Small, manager of the local plant, who was introduced as the No. 1 Pioneer, spoke on the growth of the Celanese plant and praised the work of the six men retiring.

A nomination committee was named to select candidates for the election to be held in December, with officers to assume their duties January 1, 1947.

The committee includes Howard Taylor, chairman; Irbey Rutherford, Joseph Shugrue, George Baker and Dorothy Manley.

Local Strike Leaders Face Loss Of Jobs

Maurice Milberg, manager of the Cumberland Undergarment Company, reported yesterday the company does not plan to recall 12 workers because they were leaders in the recent strike.

Milberg termed the strike, which halted operations at the Gay street plant for two months, a breach of contract between the company and the International Ladies Garment Workers Union. He said the union has been informed of the company's position and added it is possible the dispute may be arbitrated.

Only 60 of the 172 odd workers have been recalled, Milberg said, as the plant has been unable to get materials for full operations.

C. E. Stutzman, president of the Allegheny Trades Council, said the group will insist that the ILGWU live up to its promise to put all employees back to work.

Flintstone Woman Reports On Injury Of Poling Boy Here

No charges were placed against Mrs. Charlotte M. Thumel, Flintstone, who told police yesterday morning she was the driver of the car which struck Russell Leo Poling, 10, 331 Dora avenue, at the intersection of Baltimore avenue and Park streets early Monday night.

Mrs. Thumel, wife of Abraham B. Thumel, told Detective Edwin R. Lilya she read about the accident in a local newspaper and reported to police headquarters to give her version of the accident.

She told Detective Lilya the boy was struck as he was attempting to catch a bus to return home from Central YMCA and added she stopped her car, helped the boy into the car and started to the hospital.

Mrs. Thumel said she let the lad out of the car at Williams street after he insisted he was unhurt and added she wanted to take him home after he declined to go to the hospital but allowed him to alight from the vehicle after he insisted on walking.

Mrs. Bertie Jenkins, 260 Maryland avenue, was riding with Mrs. Thumel when the mishap occurred, police said.

The license plate of the car Mrs. Thumel was driving was 305-797, and not 305-757, as was first reported, police said.

The car was registered in the name of Hilton B. Nehouse, Germantown.

The Poling lad was reported in a "good" condition in Memorial Hospital. The results of X-rays taken yesterday morning to determine the extent of possible chest injuries were not available last evening.

A report of the accident was also filed yesterday with the state commissioner of motor vehicles.

Woman Fined $100 On Charge Of Fraud

Miss Waneta P. Warnick, 300 South Lee Street, was fined $100 and cost yesterday by Magistrate Frank A. Perdue, when she was found guilty of accepting unemployment insurance while employed at Memorial Hospital.

Miss Warnick who appeared in Trial Magistrate court for the hearing, pleaded not guilty to the charges, but was accused of making false statements to obtain unemployment benefits last evening.

Assistant State's Attorney Paul M. Flecher, said the defendant worked at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant from May, 1945, until last February when she was discharged because of irregular attendance at work.

Testimony shows that she went to work at Memorial Hospital June 20 and while still working there drew two checks dated July 8 and 15 each for $19. She was asked to return the money before charges were preferred by unemployment authorities here.

William H. Geppert represented Miss Warnick at the hearing.

His brother declared last night that the seaman has entered suit against the Japanese Government for suffering and punishment that he endured while a prisoner.

In April of this year, Wilson returned to Cumberland for the first time since his experiences off the coast of Florida in 1927. He spent two months at the home of his brother, at 308 Virginia avenue, and then returned to Baltimore where he was again assigned to a ship headed for the Philippines.

Upon returning to the country, Wilson learned that his 11-year-old daughter was fatally burned in a Baltimore fire in 1942. The fire was a result of a gas stove explosion, the brother declared last night.

In June, of this year, after he returned from the Philippines, the two brothers met in Baltimore for a short time, and again Wilson called for Luzon, and returned to this country via South America.

Just a couple of weeks ago he wired his mother that he was in dock in this country, and last night the family was greatly surprised to learn that he was in his third sea disaster. "Why he's in this country now," his brother exclaimed.

True to his roaming fashion, however, Wilson had again gone to sea, this time on the Tanker Bennington and was sailing down the Atlantic coast taking a cargo of oil to Louisiana, when according to crewmen, a spark from a light switch ignited gas fumes in the fore part of the vessel and caused the explosion.

Wilson was born in Hagerstown, and came to this city with his family when he was about 10. He remained here three years, and then enlisted in the army to serve in World War I. He is often referred to as the "youngest soldier from the state of Maryland to serve in World War I," his brother declared last night.

During the war, Wilson served in two campaigns, but he was injured once. In his first mishap at sea, he suffered injuries to his right arm.

In the sinking off the Philippines, he escaped injury, his brother declared, but the Jap prison camp left a mark on his health, his brother said last night.

The Associated Press reporter yesterday gave Wilson credit for assisting him in getting the story of the burning ship and the number of casualties.

It was while talking to the reporter, that he declared, "I am a veteran of 29 years at sea, but I'm through with tankers."

Musical Evening Planned

A brother and sister team booked for the fourth program in the Memorial Hospital and extension courses are being offered at the hospital four evenings weekly in sociology and psychology. Classes also will be offered in Cumberland and Frostburg to teachers who do not have degrees and are teaching in the elementary schools.

Extension Courses Offered

Physical science, art, geography of Asia and Spanish will be offered as extension courses at the college. Science and art will be offered Tuesday evenings, beginning next week, and the other two courses will be taught on Saturdays, beginning this week.

Miss Compton said the textbook situation at State Teachers College is not too bad. She pointed out that texts for most departments were ordered early in the spring and that most of them have arrived.

There is a shortage in some textbooks, however, and they are being purchased from the publishers and secondhand firms.

A firm believer in individual attention for students, Miss Compton said that there are more than 30 students in only two classes.

Faculty members, she said, have expressed the opinion that there is

Meat Shortage Hits School Cafeterias

Stating that the meat shortage has been reflected in county school cafeterias, Charles L. Kopp, county superintendent of schools, said that parents and students should be patient until October, when the meat situation may improve considerably, according to Office of Price Administration officials in New York.

Students at Allegheny High School, where a canned meat substitute was served one day last week, balked at buying the item and questioned the necessity of using substitutes when real meat on the hoof abounds in the Cumberland area.

Although school officials anticipated the meat shortage a number of weeks ago and applied to the OPA for a slaughter permit, they were informed that slaughter permits are being issued only to persons who held such permits prior to October, 1945.

The schools normally use 5,000 pounds of meat a week, most of it ground beef, to feed approximately 10,000 students in county school cafeterias, and Kopp said that both the beef and a slaughter permit are available and waiting for the word to start operations.

Meanwhile, Kopp was emphatic in stating that all school officials are to observe the letter of the law.

Postwar Shortages

Officials are extremely well pleased, Dr. Church said, with the way organization has worked out.

Every classroom is being utilized every period of the day and a number of afternoon classes have been scheduled. Laboratory periods, formerly confined to the afternoons, now are held throughout the day and some even are scheduled in the evening after dinner. Classes do not end until 5:15 p. m.

Teaching Staff Increased

Nine additional faculty members have increased the faculty to a total of 30, and with this increase and the rearrangement and increase in the number of classes the student does not suffer from a lack of individual attention. "Something we have always believed in," Dr. Church said, "Classes, however, are larger than normal."

During the war, Potomac State was "almost a female academy." Dr. Church remarked, but this year men outnumber women by three to one. In prewar years there was one woman to two men.

Included in Potomac State's enrollment this year are 385 ex-GIs, with all but 25 or 30 getting their education under the GI Bill or Public Law 16, which contains educational provisions for disabled veterans. Engineering and business administration are the favorite courses.

The 25 or 30 veterans attending Potomac State at their own expense are conserving their benefits under the GI Bill for later education, such as medical and other professional training.

Students taking advantage of the GI Bill are furnished with all textbooks, materials, laboratory supplies, paper and pencils at government expense.

Cafeteria System Introduced

Feeding the increased number of students also has brought another change to Potomac State with the dining hall now operating on the cafeteria system for the first time.

The meat situation is terrible, Dr. Church said, adding laughingly that he hires waiters to handle that subject. Students, however, have a fine attitude and realize the situation is no better elsewhere.

At State Teachers College, Frostburg, five more instructors have been added to the faculty, boosting the total to 16. In addition there are six critic teachers in the elementary schools.

Besides the large enrollment, the junior college program has been enlarged and full programs are now being offered in mathematics and the languages.

A full program is being provided for student nurses at Memorial Hospital and extension courses are being offered at the hospital four evenings weekly in sociology and psychology. Classes also will be offered in Cumberland and Frostburg to teachers who do not have degrees and are teaching in the elementary schools.

Extension Courses Offered

Literature and Spanish are being offered in Cumberland. The literature course will be taught at the Cumberland Free Public Library on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 5:15 p. m., and Spanish will be taught from 6:30 to 9 p. m. on Wednesdays at the library. The courses will begin next week.

Physical science, art, geography of Asia and Spanish will be offered as extension courses at the college. Science and art will be offered Tuesday evenings, beginning next week, and the other two courses will be taught on Saturdays, beginning this week.

Lloyd Marshall Dies

Word was received in Moorefield of the death of Lloyd S. Marshall in Los Angeles, September 22, from a heart attack and asthma.

Mr. Marshall was the son of the late John H. Marshall and Lucy Landacre Marshall and was 47 years old. He was born in Moorefield and attended school here but has not been back in the 24 or 25 years since he left the South Branch Valley.

In those years, his life was quite eventful in addition to studying and continuing his education, he became an author, research chemist and inventor. Among his chemical formulas were a motion picture film process for the preservation of film, an anti-knock gasoline, a third dimensional camera, phosphorescent paint in colors and a beauty cream made of garden vegetables.

Mr. Marshall is survived by a sister, Mrs. Bernice Helzel, a half sister, Mrs. Marion Deahl, and two half brothers, John and Robert Marshall.

Marriage Is Announced

Miss Jo Ann Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Wright, Keezletown, Va., and Max Hinegardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Hinegardner, Mathias, were married Sunday, September 1, at 4 p. m.

The double ring ceremony was read in the Keezletown Methodist parsonage by the bride's pastor, Rev. C. C. Bush.

The bride wore a winter blue wedding suit with black accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Miss Pay Earman, Washington, D. C., a cousin of the bride, was maid-of-honor and wore a blue suit with black accessories and tall-man roses.

Maynard T. Armentrout, also a cousin of the bride, was best man. Mrs. Hinegardner is a graduate of Keezletown High School, attended Madison College and the University of Virginia.

Mr. Hinegardner was graduated from Mathias High School in 1942. In October of that year, he enlisted in the Marine Corps and spent 29 months in the service, 22 months overseas. He is now employed as a laboratory technician with Merch and Company.

After a short wedding trip, the young couple returned to the bride's home, where they will reside for the present.

Fire Damages Truck

A pick-up truck belonging to Clyde Priddle was damaged by fire late Monday night when the car burst into flames while in the garage at the rear of the restaurant.

The Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company responded to the alarm and was able to save the garage and the truck.

Apparently the upholstery of the car was ignited by a smoldering cigarette.

Mr. Murray And His Appeasement Of Reds

We don't think anybody suspects Philip Murray of the CIO of being a Communist or of favoring Russian policies, but we do believe it is high time he stops giving aid and comfort to Communists in the CIO organization. He has been giving them aid. He has taken no stand against Communists who have infiltrated into positions of power in certain CIO unions. He has accepted their help and support. And, it is to be regretted, he has helped them in power by opposing efforts of the anti-Communists to oust them.

It may be he has felt he had to do this to preserve CIO unity. Edwin A. Lahey, Chicago Daily News labor writer, a few days ago, reported that Mr. Murray plans to retire as CIO head, and gave this trouble over Communism as one of the reasons. As head only of the United Steelworkers—which has been kept free of Communist domination—Mr. Lahey said Mr. Murray would be free to express himself on the subject of Communism. If so, it is high time. He has been a pacifier and appeaser on that issue, and as such he has played into the hands of the Communists. For it is their line of defense to claim that the issue should not be raised.

We don't know whether Mr. Murray ever reads The Daily Worker, the official Communist newspaper in this country. If not, he should. Even a casual reading of that publication—which never deviates a hair's breadth from the official Russian policy—might surprise Mr. Murray. For it would reveal the gratitude and enthusiasm with which it supports his policies. And Communists never are grateful except for something done in their behalf.

The United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers is one of the CIO unions notoriously infested with Communists. An effort by anti-Red forces to bar them from union leadership was roundly defeated at the union's recent convention in Milwaukee—partly with Mr. Murray's help. This help was glowingly reported in The Daily Worker. Quoting his praise of the union's leadership, it said: "Murray's words were disappointing to a minority opposition group in the convention which has won nationwide commercial press support for its Red-baiting campaign against the UE's leadership."

Mr. Murray, The Daily Worker said, "steered away from the issue of Communism," and it quoted him as saying, "It (CIO) is not going to be bothered too much at least by ideological mumbblings of groups that are hell-bent on destroying it." The Communists in the CIO always claim that any opposition to them is directed at destroying the union.

Communists in the CIO are a small, disciplined and fanatical minority. Their strength lies in the fact that they are always at work. While most members are busy night and day. Their favorite method of control is to get Communists or their fellow-travelers elected as convention delegates—a question that doesn't often attract a large vote in most union locals. By this means they turn up at conventions with representation all out of proportion to their actual strength in the union.

It will be only by open and determined rebellions that Communist-dominated unions can get rid of such control. And Mr. Murray, by his soft-pedaling, appeasing, avoid-trouble attitude has helped discourage such revolts. In so doing he is playing into the Communists' hands.

Russia Smoked Out On Poland Boundary

More good than harm has been done by the latest disagreement to crop up between Russia and the United States—the dispute between Molotov and Byrnes over Poland's western boundary. Mr. Byrnes was correct when he pointed out in his Stuttgart speech that no final decision had been made at Potsdam on Polish claims to Silesia.

But the Red delegate pointed out that the German-Polish border along the Oder-Neisse line is a "fait accompli" which remains only to be formally recognized at the peace conference. The permanence of the tentative boundary was assured, to all intents and purposes, when the Big Four agreed to allow the Poles to evacuate the German population from Silesia. When this had been done the die was cast and the border had become as firmly fixed as any borders ever are.

There was no practical possibility that the peace conference would order the return to Germany of territory in which the Poles were firmly established.

Secretary Byrnes knew this when he made this speech. But by saying what he did he has shrewdly managed to smoke the Russians out and ruin a little game which Molotov had been playing. The Soviet foreign minister has been hinting to the Germans that their only hope of regaining the territory lost in the East was to join hands with the Russians. He has been dangling the veiled promise that a Communist Germany and a Communist Russia might eventually undertake another partition of Poland which would restore the Reich to its former power and glory.

It will not be easy for the Red to get away with this now that he is on record with the flat statement that "the western frontier of Poland cannot be reversed." Secretary Byrnes has turned a nice piece of diplomacy and he has every reason to be satisfied with the result.

The question today is, is that woman in the ear ahead going to turn right, turn left—or does she have a new diamond?

What'll We Do Meanwhile

The dauntless head of the Office of Price Administration, Paul Porter—which he sometimes thinks is the Office of Perverse Arithmetic—says those stories of a "meat famine" are only "irresponsible rumors."

Which provokes us to ask if Paul has seen a butcher's counter lately. But Mr. Porter said, anyway, the "shortage" will only last about six weeks.

What do we do in the meantime? Thrive on arithmetic?

Good seems invariably manifest due regard for the rights of others.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

DEAD FINGERS FROM PNEUMATIC TOOLS

A STRANGE occupational disorder can be found among a small percentage of pneumatic tool operators. The rapid vibrations damage the blood vessels and other structures in the hand holding the machine. The condition has been described by many names, including "vibration syndrome" and "pseudo Raynaud's disease."

Some months or years after operating a pneumatic hammer, one or more of the fingers employed to grasp or guide the apparatus may become numb or "feel dead." The sensation is not persistent but will be noted after prolonged use or when the extremity is exposed to cold. During these episodes the skin blanches and, in time, additional changes arise. Stiffness and weakness of the fingers is so marked that clumsiness is exhibited not only at work but also when trying to write or perform routine duties about the house.

In others, the manifestations are more serious. The digits burn or throb. The symptoms are temporary but now and then pain is steady. Although most severe in the fingers coming into contact with the device, the entire hand and even the arm and shoulder may be involved. Swelling often appears, adding considerably to discomfort. Since the malady interferes with the man's job, and responds poorly to treatment, many sufferers become alarmed and overanxious. When these factors are coupled with physical distress, sleep is disturbed, tremors develop, and nervousness is aggravated.

Wind driven tools of this type are utilized extensively in industry. The compressed air acts alternately at each end of the piston and thus produces a vibratory effect. There are many models with various frequencies. Heavy rock drills or paving breakers weigh from 40 to 60 pounds and have a frequency of from 250 to 3000 revolutions per minute.

The lighter drills, screw drivers, grinders, and riveters vary from 2000 to 25,000 revolutions per minute. They are needed particularly in shipbuilding, locomotive, airplane, and automobile plants as well as in mining, quarrying, and construction. Vibrations below 3,000 seldom cause trouble. When we take into account the fact that the pneumatic instruments have been used for over a hundred years and currently by thousands of people, the number of victims is relatively low.

Apparently the vibrations injure the tiny blood vessels, affect the muscles, and—in some—the bones and joints. At one time it was thought that the chilled air released from the tool was responsible. This, however, has been disproved. Treatment, in general, is not too satisfactory. Cure may follow change of occupation. Heat massage, and drugs to increase the circulation are sometimes helpful. By wearing warm gloves and adequate clothing the influence of cold is less noticeable and fewer attacks may occur. Reducing the number of vibrations or dampening them by using mechanical gadgets to hold the tool, have been recommended as preventive measures.

TICKLING THROAT
F. W. writes: "My throat tickles even though I do not have a cold or cough. What is wrong?"

REPLY
The tissues of the throat may be swollen, even if a cold is not present. This could produce the sensation. In some cases dryness of the throat or irritation due to dust particles is responsible. A common cause is nervousness of the type exhibited by speakers who cough a few times before starting their orations.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

The most outstanding thing about any person is his personality. Take that away from him and he is just another human being, walking around and trying to get on the best of his life. But the person with a personality is something that is his alone, inborn, and unchangeable, and in fact unique. It is the person that people notice, like to know, and like to choose as a companion.

People with an attractive personality stand out. They are entities. Try to make them over, and they immediately revolt—for they are what they are, and they know it! They are people of will and character.

What a job it would have been to try to make folks like Washington, Lincoln, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Wendell Willkie, Thoreau or Ralph Waldo Emerson! They stood out because of what they were as all personalities do.

The late Al Smith had a great personality. He was known far and wide as the "Boss" of New York. He was a brilliant mind and a great orator. He was a "square shooter," as they say, and a genuine man. No one could re-make a man like Al Smith.

One of the serious, harassing things about family life, is where the husband tries to re-make his wife or the wife tries to re-make her husband. They should take each other as they are—for each is a separate and distinct personality. The happy families are where this fact is respected.

Dressing up a man, or woman, to suit your taste, doesn't change them an iota. Better leave to each his or her own taste and desire. Four examples alone, might help to change some of the irritating things about the one you would like to change!

We cannot re-make people. But we can help to inspire them, by thinking better, by being more tolerant, more considerate, and more companionable. That is a task worthy of us all.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Senator Barkley's Son-In-Law Lobbies To Acquire Nazi-Swiss Company; Anti-OPA Congressmen Now Defend Black Markets; Truman Considers Anti-Lynching Group

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—With the public engrossed with Cabinet flares-ups and the Russian imbroglio, a lot of juicy plums may go to certain business firms who know the ropes in Washington.

Though little publicized, juiciest plums in Government repose in the office of the Alien Property Custodian, supposed to protect priceless German property for the taxpayers. One such company is I. G. Chemie, the Swiss-Nazi FIRM seized by the United States during the war.

Remington Rand is now angling to buy I. G. Chemie. They have hired the son-in-law of statesmanlike Senator Barkley of Kentucky, Max Tritt, and have done a lot of backstage lobbying. They have even talked to Senator Mead of New York, former Chairman of the Mead Investigating Committee, to ascertain whether the deal would be investigated—if made.

This column will endeavor to report on what finally happens.

Condoning Black Markets

Last spring Republican Senator Wherry of Nebraska and other Congressmen out to kill the OPA howled their heads off that OPA was ignoring the black market. Today, as OPA agents are trying to clean up the black market, those very same Congressmen and Senators are complaining that OPA is too aggressive. Some Congressmen actually want to have the OPA CALL OFF its agents. . . . Senator Claude Pepper's vigorous attack on President Truman as having flouted Roosevelt ideals was mild compared to what Truman said privately about Pepper. His remarks, largely unprintable, reached Pepper's ears and probably helped sour him on the White House. . . . The President doesn't seem to realize that he can't sound off against Senators one day and then get their cooperation the next. . . . The Civil Service Commission has launched a secret probe as to why West Point-Annapolis applicants get higher marks when they take examinations in Washington. The Commission is also anxious to find out why such a high proportion of the lucky applicants take their exams in the National Capital are sons of high Army-Navy officers.

Anti-Lynching Commission

President Truman is considering the appointment of a new White House commission to make a complete review of lynchings. This was discussed at a recent conference between the President, Walter White of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and James B. Carey of the CIO United Electrical Workers.

The two men told Truman about several atrocities against Negroes, one of them the case of Isaac Woodward of New York City, a young war veteran whose eyes were gouged out by a policeman near Aiken, S. C.

Woodward was turned over to the police after an argument with a bus driver, who upbraided him for spending too much time in a bus depot washroom. The vet, who served three years in the Army, including 15 months in the South Pacific, had been discharged in Atlanta, Ga., three hours before the incident and was on his way home to New York.

Carey and White reported that Woodward had been held in a South Carolina veterans' hospital ever since the incident and no one has been allowed to talk to him.

"I am familiar with some of these cases," Truman observed, "but didn't realize this brutality was so widespread. I am shocked and horrified by your report."

He added that he realized the lynching problem has not been adequately dealt with by the Federal Government, largely because the Federal Government is still hampered by state legal barriers. Truman himself proposed the idea of a Presidential "emergency" commission, similar to the Roberts Pearl Harbor Board, with authority to investigate lynchings and assaults, re-visit "shortcomings" in the present law and make recommendations for legislation to better safeguard civil liberties. He said that he would be glad to initiate such legislation.

From the Diplomatic Pouch

There's been some eyebrow lifting in the State Department over the way U. S. Ambassador George Messersmith has been hobnobbing with the Fascist Peron Government. Messersmith has even made several trips to Argentina to be considered a worthy ally when the "probable war between United States and Russia breaks out. . . . Assistant Secretary of State Spruille Braden not only raises his eyebrows but is sore. Messersmith's transfer may be demanded when Byrnes returns from Paris. . . . General Eisenhower has been asked to send specially trained military police to Manila to break up thievery in Army and civilian post offices. Fifteen per cent of all packages and even letters to GI's in Manila are opened and looted. From five to seven million dollars' worth of Philippine goods is stolen in the Philippines each month—with about ten junks disappearing every day. Members of the House Military Affairs Committee, just returned from U. S. Pacific bases, say military equipment is going to pot, that the most modern equipment is not being installed, that morale among the men is low. They blame themselves as much as the Army.

Atomic Lillenthal

David Lillenthal is No. 1 choice to head the powerful Atomic Energy Commission. Able lame-duck Bob La Follette of Wisconsin will also be appointed either to the Atomic Commission or replace Lillenthal as head of TVA.

Henry Morgenthau was all set to take over all of Henry Wallace's cancelled foreign policy speaking engagements when Wallace was muzzled but had not yet resigned. Morgenthau and Wallace see eye-to-eye on foreign policy; also on Jimmy Byrnes. . . . Trumanites are worried over intimations that Wallace will reveal certain highly secret things that transpired inside the Cabinet regarding foreign policy. . . . President Truman has abandoned his search for a government post for his old friend, Senator Wheeler of Montana. Wheeler will practice law in Montana and Washington, doesn't want a government job. Several railroads are eager to hire their one-time severest critic.

Far Eastern Report

Here's what members of the House Military Affairs Committee reported to General Eisenhower, following their return from an inspection of our military bases in the Far East:

1. Morale of our Far East occupational troops is being endangered by the Army's delay in sending wives and families to officers and enlisted men.

2. The Army is doing little to set up facilities for the proper housing of Army wives and children who want to join the troops. Eisenhower was informed. On Okinawa, for instance, surplus Army stores and plumbing supplies badly needed in Quonset huts where Army families will be housed—have been sold to the Chinese.

3. Another demoralizing factor is the shortage of cigarettes and fresh fruit and vegetables. Eisenhower promised to look into these facts immediately.

True Position Of CIO-PAC Looms In Political Lineup

By MARK SULLIVAN

The shifts in American politics, caused by President Truman's dismissal of Secretary Wallace, are taking place rapidly, even though reluctantly on the part of some who are forced into a changed alignment. Though there are some contradictions, the shifts move toward a plain end. The end is what existed in nature but was denied or glossed over, namely the irreconcilable difference between two wings of one of America's great political parties.

The Democratic Party as it was until the Wallace dismissal, included two groups. One was the conservative and orthodox Democrats. The other consisted of a number of bodies whose relation to the Democratic Party calls for careful statement. While they were organized independently and while they proclaimed independence of both parties, and in a few cases supported Republican candidates for office, they in fact operated mainly within the Democratic Party. The principal one of these groups was the CIO Political Action Committee. Conservative Democrats regarded this committee as having the purpose of controlling the party. In the Democratic primaries for nominations to Congress during the past summer, most of the contests that involved the Democratic Party were supported by conservative Democrats and ones supported by the CIO Political Action Committee.

Lehman Case An Illustration

What is now taking place, and must go further, is illustrated by the case of former Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York. Mr. Lehman is the candidate of the Democratic Party for United States Senator. He is also the candidate of the American Labor Party. The latter is closely associated with the CIO Political Action Committee—the late Sidney Hillman, founder and head of the CIO Political Action Committee, was at the same time New York State Chairman of the American Labor Party.

Into this unity of support of Mr. Lehman came the Wallace speech and his dismissal. The conservative Democrats stand by Mr. Truman as a matter of course. But the American Labor Party endorsed the Wallace speech which led to his dismissal. So did other affiliates of the CIO Political Action Committee and groups sympathetic to it. Two such groups were the sponsors of the meeting at which Mr. Wallace made his explosive speech. After the dismissal of Mr. Wallace, some of the condemnations of Mr. Truman coming from these sources use words of great harshness, call Mr. Truman "weak" and describe him as yielding to "reactionaries."

Choice Forced Upon Him

In this situation Mr. Lehman, as candidate of both the Democratic Party and the American Labor Party, must make a choice. The choice is forced upon him inexorably. For the issue between Mr. Truman and Mr. Wallace is a stark one of foreign relations—between a policy about Russia that is the official policy of the Democratic Administration in power, and the Wallace policy that denounces this and takes a different course. Actually, Mr. Lehman hardly has a choice, that he should fail to support the Administration's foreign policy is unthinkable.

The case of Mr. Lehman is merely a conspicuous one among many. Throughout the country scores of candidates for Congress and other offices are in the same position. They are the candidates of the Democratic Party officially. At the same time they have the support of the CIO Political Action Committee, in some cases owe their nominations to that body.

Clue To True Value Of Stalin's Words To Be Found At Paris Parley

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—Deeds are more important than words in international relations and especially where Russia and the United States are concerned. Speeches and interviews declaring against a third world war have been made repeatedly on both sides, but it is far more realistic to examine from time to time the actual state negotiations between the two nations.

Friction exists over Korea and Manchuria and Allied policies in the Far East. Friction exists over what is happening inside Austria and in the Balkans as well as in Poland. Friction exists over the future of Trieste. The biggest single piece of discord is in respect to the economic unity of Germany, the Russian attitude being regarded by the American government as in violation of the spirit as well as the letter of the Potsdam agreement.

Stalin Pacific Utterances Not New

Generalissimo Stalin has made pacific utterances before. If his latest pronouncement results in a change of attitude of his spokesmen at Paris and before the United Nations conferences in New York, the world will indeed breathe easier.

The Stalin statement is important mostly because of its timing. It will be recalled that the tactics of making a soothing or pacific statement at a psychological moment has in the past been utilized by various dictators to ease a crisis. During the disarmament conference in London in 1935, Hitler made a statement concerning Germany's peaceful purposes which was accepted by our own government as a prediction of future peace, and psychologically it was one of the factors which cooled the United States and Britain to hesitate in constraining realistically Japan's announcement of her unwillingness to be bound any further by the naval armament limitations previously existing.

Change of Attitude Necessary

Hence, words and speeches will be considered meaningless unless a change of attitude is manifest in the diplomacy of Russia throughout the world. The interview in which Stalin expressed himself on the atomic bomb is full of significance. His first comment was that there is no threat to world peace in the monopolistic possession of the bomb which must be a considerable surprise to American left wingers, who call the monopoly a threat to Russia. Stalin adds that this monopoly

Ladies and gentlemen, I'm scared. And I don't scare easy. When stocks fell stone cold dead in the market, I didn't even take an aspirin. When Wallace put the heat on me, I didn't even take a bath. I was a little shaky, but I didn't let it show. I was a little shaky, but I didn't let it show. I was a little shaky, but I didn't let it show.

My wife refused to let me buy her a dress she was crazy about. She said the price was too high. This hit me harder than all the editorials and OPA statistics. Yesterday was our annual "Shoot the Works" Day. For 364 days, my hand moves slowly when I reach for my wallet. But each year, as I look at my anniversary present, I tell her, "Nothing's too good for baby. If the shoe fits—buy it." So off she goes shopping, and like Alphonse, the little French husband, I toddle after.

We stopped in at the establishment run by one of our nationally known dress designers. It's one of those places where a woman feels like a Duchess, and her husband feels conspicuous. The clothes don't hang on racks—they are modeled by pretties who next year will be working for Paramount. A string quartet throbs softly behind potted palms. The only reason the head saleslady isn't the favorite of the King of France is that there is no King of France.

While Eleanor appraised what the mannequins were wearing, I slumped in a chair and appraised what they weren't. She smiled approval when something all white satin and ermine fell swept by.

"Pretty isn't it?" she whispered. I nodded and said to myself, "You smoke too much anyway. It won't hurt to spend a little less for tobacco."

On and on went the Parade of Dreamstuff. I was selling mental apples by the time it was over. While Eleanor spoke to the boss-woman about pretties, I took a deep breath and unscrewed the cap from my fountain pen. She came back explosiveness, and makes it perhaps unique in American history, is the accidental timing of it. It came in the very midst of a campaign, with party nominations everywhere made and the election coming in less than two months. As Mr. Lehman and others similarly situated must make a choice, so must the left wing groups make one. The American Labor Party in New York, assuming that Mr. Lehman stands by Mr. Truman, must choose whether to go on with support of him as their formally nominated candidate for Senator. Their alternatives are limited. It is too late for them to nominate a new candidate of their own.

What is emerging is the true position of the CIO Political Action Committee in the American political line-up. When organized, the committee and its late leader, Sidney Hillman, determined that it was to be a third party but to function within one or both of the old parties. But the doctrines of the committee are so different from the familiar ones of the two old parties that in fact, though not in form, it is a third party.

It might possibly be that the first results of the firm American policy are beginning to be manifest and that, since America could not be divided or budged from previous positions taken by Secretary Byrnes, the Russian group in Moscow has decided that perhaps the situation has been allowed to disintegrate too far and that a restoration of better relations, at least in the immediate future, is highly desirable.

Going Fishing? Here's How!

To hear Willie Wells and Basil Strube arguing about trout fishing, you'd think it was more important than the atom bomb.

Willie favors dry flies, Basil pooh-poohs anything but wet flies. Willie swears by a Royal Coachman; Basil won't hear of anything but a Silver Doctor. And by the time it comes to steel rods versus bamboo rods... #IX&*!!

But on Saturday, each got back from Seward's creek with a catch that couldn't have differed by more than several ounces!

Each had used his favorite kind of fly, his favorite rod and his favorite place to cast. So over a friendly glass of beer, they allowed as how maybe they were both right... which is how so many arguments should end.

ARE YOU AN AMERICAN?

Mattie Strong, of 410 Kessel street, Weirton, W. Va., has set me wondering. And if you are one of the millions who claim Americanism by birth, she should startle you a bit too, for Mattie asks—

"Are you an American? By what right do you call yourself one? Do you think you are an American merely because you were born here and inherited your citizenship?"

Americanism is a very different and difficult thing to the foreign born, she says. They not only have to work hard and spend tedious time and money and study to achieve their goal but they also have to learn a new and difficult language, strange customs and a definite lack of friendliness.

"What makes you and millions like you American—you who were born in the good old U. S. A.? What have you done to merit your citizenship? What have you sacrificed to be an American?"

That's a challenging question which will definitely deflate most of us if we have a sense of values. For what have we done, what have we given, to entitle us to the glorious state of Americanism?

Remember this and remember it humbly. America is not a certain number of square miles. It is a state of mind. It is a state of mind toward which men groped for generations and for which they paid literally with their blood, sweat and tears. In spite of all our whoopee, we take the first Americans very much for granted. We think of them as heroic and let it go at that. But they were much more than heroic souls. They were weary, bewildered, persecuted men and women who gambled all they had—their old world security, their home ties, everything that makes for ease and contentment—on a dream. A dream of freedom.

From the day they landed on Plymouth Rock they knew that freedom wouldn't be easy or pleasant or secure. They knew they faced the extremity of hardship as well as their own weakness and loneliness. And yet they dared to go on.

They dared to go on, sweeping west and ever west until all the conquered, bloodstained miles became America. I who am writing this remember men who walked with Indian scalps dangling from their belts and women who sat without tears in the evening, thinking of the little graves their wagon wheels had crossed.

Americanism is a state of mind. It is the world's first and greatest attempt to establish freedom, democracy and equality. It was man's first attempt to give his fellow man a break. And it was a dangerous attempt. It has always required great courage and a far viewpoint to be an American.

Have you got what it takes? Have it? Or is the dream to pay because we are too soft, too limited, too intolerant to face its terrific challenge? Sometimes I wonder.

Settlement Made In Eviction Case

Action against a local landlord, who threatened to eject a tenant and dismantle the house, was settled out of court, according to John T. Fey, counsel for Mrs. Florence Mae McElfish, who filed the suit.

The attorney said Harry M. Wahl, the landlord, will fix up the one-room cottage at Triple Lakes and allow Mrs. McElfish to live there until next spring.

The defendant had charged that Wahl refused to accept the September rent and threatened to shut off the water and lights. Mrs. McElfish said she had been renting the cottage for three years and that her son, a disabled Marine Corps veteran, shared it with her. She asked an injunction to halt his alleged attempts to evict her.

They dared to go on, sweeping west and ever west until all the conquered, bloodstained miles became America. I who am writing this remember men who walked with Indian scalps dangling from their belts and women who sat without tears in the evening, thinking of the little graves their wagon wheels had crossed.

Americanism is a state of mind. It is the world's first and greatest attempt to establish freedom, democracy and equality. It was man's first attempt to give his fellow man a break. And it was a dangerous attempt. It has always required great courage and a far viewpoint to be an American.

Have you got what it takes? Have you got the dream to pass because we are too soft, too limited, too intolerant to face its terrific challenge? Sometimes I wonder.

Settlement Made In Eviction Case

Action against a local landlord, who threatened to eject a tenant and dismantle the house, was settled out of court, according to John T. Fey, counsel for Mrs. Florence Mae McElfish, who filed the suit.

The attorney said Harry M. Wahl, the landlord, will fix up the one-room cottage at Triple Lakes and allow Mrs. McElfish to live there until next spring.

The defendant had charged that Wahl refused to accept the September rent and threatened to shut off the water and lights. Mrs. McElfish said she had been renting the cottage for three years and that her son, a disabled Marine Corps veteran, shared it with her. She asked an injunction to halt his alleged attempts to evict her.

Mrs. Hallie Twigg Becomes Bride Of Ross G. Lewis

Mrs. Hallie Odell Twigg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laten Phares, 19 West Oldtown road, was married yesterday in the parsonage of the Second Baptist Church to Ross Granville Lewis, son of Mrs. Lewis, Wiley Ford, W. Va. Rev. E. S. Price, Romney, W. Va., performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Raymond Williams was the bride's only attendant. Mr. Williams was best man.

The bride wore an aqua jersey suit and a corsage of rosebuds and Mrs. Williams wore a white suit. After the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home.

Mrs. Lewis is a graduate of Fort Hill High School. Mr. Lewis, a veteran of World War II, is also a graduate of Fort Hill. He is employed at the Kelly-Springfield plant. After a wedding trip to Richmond, Va., and Baltimore they will live in Cumberland.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Brushing Up On Dancing Might Help Veteran To Overcome Inferiority Complex

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love And Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a returned veteran and very much in love with a girl I've known all my life.

Whenever we are together we seem to get along fine and she is willing to go out with me. But there is a catch. I have an inferiority complex and do not like to mingle too much at dances.

I love this girl too much to take her out and have her be seen in my company. I would like to marry her, but for her own good I do not know what to do. If she wasn't so beautiful I would ask her without hesitating, but since she is, I do. Could you please advise me as to whether I have the right to ask her to marry me and also if I should take her out?

M. S.

Why on earth shouldn't you ask her to marry you, M. S.? Just because she is, as you say, "so beautiful"? What in the world has that got to do with it? And the same applies to taking her out.

I can't quite see what's making you feel so shy about the whole thing, when the girl is willing to accept your invitations, as you say she is, and the two of you get along so well. She must like to be with you and to be seen in your company, or she wouldn't go. Somehow I think the real key to your trouble is hidden in your remark that you don't enjoy yourself at dances. Probably you're not a very good dancer and feel self-conscious about asking girls to dance with you. Maybe it's a little difficult, too, for you to make social conversation. Both those things aren't hopeless, you know. You can make yourself a good dancer by taking a few lessons, and there is a lot you can do toward developing social poise. If you're anxious to do so, write me a letter and give me your name and address, and I'll be glad to make some suggestions.

A Gift For Boy Friend

Dear Miss Fairfax:

About six months ago, I wrote you about a boy I met in college who took me out several times and then stopped taking me out and didn't call me.

Not long after I wrote you, he started taking me out a good deal and has been very attentive to me ever since. After graduating from college, he left for his home down South, but he writes me twice a week, and I always answer him. We don't write love notes but just nice newsy letters.

He sent me a book for my birthday and when his birthday comes I would like to send him something. Please let me know what would be proper. He doesn't smoke or drink, which is one of his good points.

E. M. L.

I am glad your boy friend came back, E. M. L. And I think it's fine that you are both sensible enough to be just good friends for a while and write each other the kind of letters you do.

As for his birthday present—and I hope this won't be too late for it—how about a couple of records of his favorite music? That's always a good bet. Or you could send him a book, too, even though he did send you one. Naturally, you don't want your present to be too personal but if you wanted to send a necktie, I don't think that would be. If you know his hobbies, you might select something that would fit in with one of them.

Good luck to you.

BROADWAY

By DANTON WALKER

Bermuda, in case you don't already know it, is not one island, but a series of islands—150 to be exact—strung together by causeways and bridges. It is a British colony but not part of the British West Indies, as many suppose, and is totally unrelated to any other British colony. It is nearer to Halifax than it is to Nassau and claims to be the oldest island under British rule in the Western Hemisphere, though Newfoundland disputes this. . . . It was discovered by a Spaniard (Juan Bermudez), who called it the Isle of Devils because his ships were wrecked by its submerged coral reefs. . . . Rudyard Kipling believed it was the scene for "The Tempest" and that reporter Will Shakespeare was inspired to write his play about the "still vex'd Bermudians" after listening to the babble of a drunken sailor in London's famous Mermaid Tavern.

Bermuda, like New England, owes its settlement to bad weather. The Virginia-bound Sea Venture, like the good ship Mayflower, was driven ashore by a storm (1609) and the British have been here ever since. . . . When World War II was brewing, President Roosevelt took out a 99-year lease on some of its territory, so it looks like the Americans will be here until 2040, at least. . . . The good neighbor role, however, is nothing new in Bermuda's history. When the Massachusetts colonials were still worried about their crops (and their scalps) they managed to raise a fund to feed the "starving Bermudians" who had a lot more food than they did. . . . The Salem witchcraft scare was nothing to what happened in Bermuda, where it lasted for nearly half a century. One old lady was hung for witchcraft because she gave a neighbor a rose to smell and he ended. . . . Today, the island boasts of being free from hay fever except during the month of March.

Mark Twain and William Dean Howells were the two best press agents that Bermuda ever had, though neither was paid for his services. . . . The island's best exponent in modern times is Eleanor Early, whose "Ports of the Sun" (Houghton, Mifflin Co.) is a delightful mixture of history, drink recipes, statistics and personal observations in the feminine style. . . . Hervey Allen wrote "Anthony Adverse" here in a studio made over from ancient slave quarters, near Paget. . . . Captain Kidd spent a lot of time here, too, when he was the social lion of New York. . . . Thomas Moore, the Irish poet, who came here on a government job, was so enamored of the place that he continued to write poems about it long after he left. . . . Bermuda had the first English church in the western world, built a good eight years before the pilgrims landed in Provincetown. It also boasts the oldest Masonic Lodge in the western hemisphere.

Though Bermuda's normal population is only 30,000 (three fifths of it colored), before the war it boasted 36 hotels and guest houses, with accommodations for 4,300 people. . . . Its port were the stop-overs for the ships of a half dozen major steamship lines. . . . There are no beggars and no gamblers, except the occasional crap-shooters of the American military occupation. . . . There are no billboards, no amusement parks, and no factories, except those which make perfume from the native flowers. . . . Bermuda lilies are here in abundance, but Bermuda onions are practically extinct. Most Bermuda onions come from Bermuda, Texas. . . . There are superb golf courses, tennis courts and coral beaches—and I am not a press agent for the place. . . . American soldiers and sailors still room the island, but they are now few and far between. American bases will continue to be manned by skeleton crews. "Carefully designed in keeping with the traditional Bermuda architecture (according to the Bermuda News Bureau) the white rooftops of the permanent buildings are just the same as the rooftops of the old Bermuda homesteads and their woodwork and fittings are of Bermuda cedar. Landscaping is already under way. As monuments to the military and naval might of the United States, they will be added attractions for Bermuda visitors in peace time." Owner Escapes As Truck Runs Away And Burns

By DAVID E. KIRK
BARTON, Sept. 25.—A truck owned and operated by Maeford LaRue, Frostburg, ran away today at 2 p. m., landing against a stump 100 feet away and caught fire, destroying the motor and cab.

Barton Hose Co. No. 1 answered the alarm and put out the fire keeping it from spreading to the surrounding trees and the back end of truck.

The owner said he had just loaded it with coal from the strip mine of Ford and Bennett and was coming down a little hill just ready to make a left turn onto the main road when the brake let loose. He jumped from the cab of the truck, escaping serious injury, scratching only his arm and nose.

The back of the truck may be repaired but the front of the truck was completely demolished. The loss was covered by insurance, the owner stated.

The accident occurred about two miles past city limits.

The sophomore class of the Barton High School held an outing last evening at the Copland House, Garrett county, which was attended by 25 persons. The evening was spent in singing and games, followed by refreshments. Paul Frase, eleventh grade advisor, was in charge due to the illness of Mrs. Elizabeth P. Cooper, 10th grade advisor.

Following the regular meeting of the Barton No. 77, Daughters of America, the past councilors' club met. The evening was spent with games being played and prizes being awarded followed by the serving of refreshments. Mesdames James Davis, Katherine Hendley and Jane Mowbray were the hostesses for the evening.

Persons having old clothing they wish to discard can donate it to the clothing drive under the sponsorship of the Methodist Church. The clothing will be shipped to New Windsor, Md., for packing prior to shipment overseas. The clothing drive will end Sunday.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 25.—Nice to hear John Ford so happy and so full of health. He's just back from Mexico where he told us he signed Dolores Del Rio to star in the movie he and Merian Cooper are making there. Remember, I told you they were planning to bring to the screen "The Power and the Glory" by Graham Greene, tentatively titled "The Fugitive." "Dolores," John said, "has developed into a great star. She's the best loved actress in Mexico and we feel very fortunate to be able to get her. Every company in Mexico sits on her doorstep." My answer to John was, "a wonderful break for Dolores, for you make only good pictures." You're welcome, John.

Bob Hope

Dorothy Lamour can't seem to get away from the "road" pictures. Both Bing Crosby and Bob Hope call loudly for Dorothy every time one of these "comedy-nations" (new word) comes up. They like her personality and she's a good sport when it comes to their ribbing. "Beggars Are Coming" was offered to Dottie by Hal Wallis, and she was crazy about the story, and all set to do it when she was handed the script of "The Road to Rio," which gets going in December. "You can't do 'Beggars,'" Billy and Bob told her. "We need you." So Dottie said okay and once again she'll be the object of their clowning and love making, which ain't bad.

News has a way of traveling fast. For instance, from London I just heard that 20th Century-Fox is trying to borrow Michael Rennie, British actor, for "Forever Amber." Cornel Wilde is definitely out—saying his health won't permit him to play Bruce. After Darryl Zanuck saw Rennie in "Hoot of All Evil," with Phyllis Calvert, and in another movie with Margaret Lockwood, he called Rennie's agent. Rennie is presently making a movie in Switzerland with Madeline Carroll, and those who have seen him say he should be excellent as Bruce.

I reached the set of "Arch of Triumph" just in time to see Charles Boyer perform a surgical operation to try and save Ingrid Bergman's life. It was all too real, and I was glad I had my talk with Ingrid before her "operation." They were hurrying to get through with the scene because they were celebrating another birthday. This time it was the cameraman, Russell Metty, and Ingrid looked all over town to get him a bottle of Calvados (apple brandy to you), mentioned so often in "Arch of Triumph." She showed me a life-size shadow of herself cut out of thin black material. She stood against a lighted screen while her stand-in drew her, but she, herself, cut the figure. "He's been such a good cameraman," she told me, "I wanted my shadow always to follow him."

Chatter in Hollywood: The devotion and care Richard Quine has given his wife, Susan Peters, since the shooting accident which paralyzed her, is one of Hollywood's sweetest stories. Richard has really let his own career go, to care for Susan, so now it's nice to hear that he has been paged by Oscar Hammerstein for the Broadway stage play, "Mary and William." MGM, who holds young Quine's contract, has given him permission to fly to New York to confer with Hammerstein and Norman Krasna, the author. If a deal is made Susan will be flown to New York to be with him. The change should be a very good tonic for her.

I keep hearing about Lorraine Miller, who has an important part with Helen Hayes in "Happy Birthday," Anita Loos, author of "Happy Birthday," says Lorraine makes Jane Russell look like a stick. Film producers needn't get too excited about Lorraine, however, because she's under contract to Milton Sperling and United States Pictures. As of today, I wouldn't say that Lorraine is too valuable, but after she appears in "Happy Birthday" under the aegis of Rogers and Hammerstein, well, Lorraine's stock should go up if she's half as good as Anita and the rest of the "Happy Birthday" crowd say.

Marlene Dietrich was very broken up over the sudden death of the French actor Raimu in Paris. She was just about to play a death scene in "Golden Earrings" when she handed it to Mitch Leisen, her director. But Mitch told me he didn't sympathize with her until after she played the scene, because he was afraid she would get too emotional and overplay it. I sat with them at the Pendleton party and Marlene said that Raimu had put her on the plane when she left France. "He had fallen five months ago and broken his leg and was still walking with a cane," said Marlene.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Carmel Bergstrom, Paramount actress, is in Reno to divorce Jim Jordan Jr. When she's free she'll marry William George, actor, also with Paramount. Jim is the son of Fibber McGee and Molly. Billy De Wolfe and Amy Aronell have changed their minds and will not marry come December. The much married Arlene Judge, who recently admitted her fourth mistake by filing for divorce from Morgan Ryan, bearded the same plane with Ryan. Result—much talk of a reconciliation but this denied. Ella Raines brought Major Olds over to me and introduced him at the James Pendleton party. He is very good looking, and even though she has been seeing Clark Gable, he is the one. Loretta Young and Tom Lewis who flew today, to Honolulu after waiting for weeks for boat reservations, were saying so much to their friends. The Pendletons give a huge cocktail and buffet dinner once a year before they return east. They entertained over 200 from cocktail time until dawn. . . . Paulette Goddard didn't know her mother was planning to marry until Mrs. Goddard called on her daughter and broke the news. The bridegroom is Don Jacobsen, Swedish frozen food executive. What happened to George Sanders? He returned to Hollywood saying American women are the best dressed in the world and certainly show up the Parisiennes. Maybe he's sick. . . . Tony Martin at Ciro's with a blonde called Nancy Valentine, hiding his broken heart very well. The ex-girl friend, Rita Hayworth, out with Orson Welles, attracted a lot of attention. Both of them were done up in identical suits. . . . John Hodiak left the hospital Monday, but probably won't be able to work the rest of this week. That's all today.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 25—Nice to hear John Ford so happy and so full of health. He's just back from Mexico where he told me he signed Dolores Del Rio to star in the movie he and Merian Cooper are making there. Remember, I told you they were planning to bring to the screen "The Power and the Glory" by Graham Greene, tentatively titled "The Purgative." "Dolores," John said, "has developed into a great star. She's the best loved actress in Mexico and we feel very fortunate to be able to get her. Every company in Mexico sits on her doorstep." My answer to John was, "A wonderful break for Dolores, for you make only good pictures." You're welcome, John.

Bob Hope

Dorothy Lamour can't seem to get away from the "road" picture. Both Bing Crosby and Bob Hope call loudly for Dorothy every time one of these "comedy-satires" (new word) comes up. They like her personality and she's a good sport when it comes to their ribbing. "Beggars Are Coming" was offered to Dorothy.

by Hal Wallis, and she was crazy about the story, and all set to do it when she was handed the script of "The Road to Rio," which gets going in December. "You can't do 'Beggars,' " Bing and Bob told her. "We need you." So Dorothy said okay and once again she'll be the object of their clowning and love making, which ain't bad.

News has a way of traveling fast. For instance, from London I just heard that 20th Century-Fox is trying to borrow Michael Rennie, British actor, for "Forever Amber." Greta Garbo is definitely out—saying his health won't permit him to play Bruce. After Darryl Zanuck saw Rennie in "Root of All Evil," with Phyllis Calvert, and in another movie with Margaret Lockwood, he called Rennie's agent. Rennie is presently making a movie in Switzerland with Madeline Carroll, and those who have seen him say he should be excellent as Bruce.

I reached the set of "Arch of Triumph" just in time to see Charles Boyer perform a surgical operation to try and save Ingrid Bergman's life. It was all too real, and I was glad I had my talk with Ingrid before her "operation." They were hurrying to get through with the scene because they were celebrating another birthday. This time it was the cameraman, Russell Metty, and Ingrid looked as overjoyed to get him a bottle of Calvados (apple brandy to you), mentioned so often in "Arch of Triumph." She showed me a life-size shadow of herself cut out of thin black material. She stood against a lighted screen while her stand-in drew her, but she, herself, cut the figure. "He's been such a good cameraman," she told me. "I wanted my shadow always to follow him."

Chatter in Hollywood: The devotion and care Richard Quine has given his wife, Susan, Peters, since the shooting accident which paralyzed her, is one of Hollywood's sweetest stories. Richard has really let his own career go, to care for Susan, so now it's nice to hear that he has been passed by Oscar Hammerstein for the Broadway stage play, "Mary and William." MGM, who holds young Quine's contract, has given him permission to fly to New York to confer with Hammerstein and Norman Krasna, the author. If a deal is made Susan will be flown to New York to be with him. The change should be a very good tonic for her.

I keep hearing about Lorraine Miller, who has an important part with Helen Hayes in "Happy Birthday." Anita Loos, author of "Happy Birthday," says Lorraine makes Jane Russell look like a stick. Film producers needn't get too excited about Lorraine, however, because she's under contract to Milton Sperling and United States Pictures. As of today, I wouldn't say that Lorraine is too valuable, but after she appears in "Happy Birthday" under the aegis of Rogers and Hammerstein, well, Lorraine's stock should go up if she's half as good as Anita and the rest of the "Happy Birthday" crowd say.

Marlene Dietrich was very broken up over the sudden death of the French actor Raimu in Paris. She was just about to play a death scene in "Golden Earrings" when the cable arrived. Without a word she handed it to Mitch Leiken, her director. But Mitch told me he didn't sympathize with her until after she played the scene, because he was afraid she would get too emotional and overplay it. I sat with them at the Pendleton party and Marlene said that Raimu had put her on the plane when she left France. "He had fallen five months ago and broken his leg and was still walking with a cane," said Marlene.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Carmel Bergstrom, Paramount actress, is in Reno to divorce Jim Jordan Jr. When she's free she'll marry William George, actor, also with Paramount. Jim is the son of Fibber McGee and Molly. Billy De Wolfe and Amy Arnell have changed their minds and will not marry come December. The much married Arlene Judge, who recently admitted her fourth mistake by filing for divorce from Morgan Ryan, boarded the same plane with Ryan. Result—much talk of a reconciliation but this denied. . . . Ella Raines brought Marjorie O'Leary over to me and introduced him at the James Pendleton party. He is very good looking, and even though she has been seeing Clark Cable, he is the one. Loretta Young and Tom Lewis who flew today, to Honolulu after waiting for weeks for boat reservations, were saying so reverent to their friends. The Pendletons give a huge cocktail and buffet dinner once a year before they return east. They entertained over 200 from cocktail time until dawn. . . . Paulette Goddard didn't know her mother was planning to marry until Mrs. Goddard called on her daughter and broke the news. The bridegroom is Don Jacobson, Swedish frozen food executive. . . . What's happened to George Sanders? He returned to Hollywood saying American women are the best dressed in the world and certainly show up the Parisiennes. Maybe he's sick. . . . Tony Martin at Ciro's with a blonde called Nancy Valentine, hiding his broken heart very well. The ex-girl friend, Rita Hayworth, out with Orson Welles, attracted a lot of attention. Both of them were done up in idleness. That's all today.

Stock Market Has Second Straight Recovery Session; Dealings Light

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—For the second time in almost two months the stock market today made a recovery session in a row, although dealings were the lightest in more than a week.

The list extended Tuesday's comeback at the opening. There were subsequent profit cashing intervals when prices and dealings tapered. A few "thin" issues climbed as much as 10 points on meager transactions but general advances elsewhere of one to four or so were reduced in most cases at the close. Transfers of 1,800,000 shares compared with 2,300,000 the day before and were the smallest since September 17.

Du Pont was up 4 1/2 at $180.75; American Can 3 1/2 at $86.25; Chrysler three at $89; Goodrich 2 1/2 at $71; Southern Railway 2 1/2 at $37.62; Bethlehem 2 1/2 at $97; General Motors 2 1/2 at $54 and American Telephone 2 1/2 at $173.62.

Union Pacific lost 3 1/2 at $120. Lower were Dome Mines, Warner Brothers and American Airlines. In the Curb, Rice and utilities advanced its Tuesday advance by 4 1/2 points at $67.50 in further response to a recapitalization plan. Favored also were Babcock and Wilcox, Cities Service, Continental Foundry, Raytheon and Tectron. Turnover here was 480,000 shares versus 590,000 yesterday.

Bonds of bankrupt railroads thrust upward through an irregular market in a brisk follow to Tuesday's late rally.

Lively demand boosted favored issues as much as five points. Top priced rails and utilities tended downward while the industrial group moved unevenly.

Closing higher were Baltimore and Ohio convertibles at 48, American Telephone 3s at 133, Central of New Jersey 4s at 26, Alton 3s at 34 1/2, Great Western incomes at 44 1/2, St. Paul convertibles at 54.

On the minus side were Sante Fe 4s at 126 1/2, Commonwealth Edison 3s at 107 1/2, and Pennsylvania Railroad general 4 1/2s at 115.

Issues of Brazil, Chile and Colombia declined in the foreign dollar list.

United States governments improved in the exchange and over-the-counter market.

Sales of $7,480,000 compared with $9,354,000 Tuesday.

Fair Exhibit Winners Slow In Collecting

Proof that many persons who enter exhibits in the Cumberland Fair displays are not interested in the financial reward is offered by Miss Leona Phillips, secretary to the county agent.

Miss Phillips said yesterday that she still has a sizable amount of cash on hand for winners of the various entries at this year's fair. It may be obtained, she declared, by calling at the office of the county agent, on the third floor of the County House.

Approximately $3,300 was paid out in cash prizes for Home Demonstration and 4-H displays this year, Miss Phillips said, but more than $600 of the prize money was returned to the local office to await claiming by the winners.

Even some of the blue ribbon articles are still at the office waiting for owners to claim them, the secretary declared.

Liquor Supply Dwindles

Local wholesale and retail liquor dealers reported yesterday they are running short on supplies due to the trucking strike which began here Labor Day. Nearly all liquor shipments in recent years have been transported by truck. No developments were reported yesterday on the work stoppage.

Buck Walters Of Reds Turns Back Cards, 6-0

Veteran Right Hand, Who Hadn't Won Game Since Aug. 17, Tosses Seven-Hitter

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25 (AP)—Bucky Walters, sore-armed Cincinnati veteran who hadn't won a game since he beat St. Louis Aug. 17, shut out the Philadelphia Cardinals tonight, 6-0 on seven hits, leaving the Red Birds one full game ahead of Brooklyn.

Presented with a golden opportunity to drape the Dodgers over the ropes after their afternoon loss to the Phillies, the Cardinals blew their chance before the mystifying slants of the 36-year-old right hander.

The Reds hoped on Starter Murry fourth inning and picked up three more unneeded scores in the ninth off Relievers Alphonse Brucke and Tody Wilke in their final, Sportsman's Park appearance of the season. Although they won eight times in 22 season meetings, Cincinnati was six of 11 in the St. Louis Park.

With the Dodgers and Cards each having only three games to play, the National League race was assured of going right down to Saturday for decision and there was a strong probability that the winner would not be known until Sunday night, the final day of the season.

While the Cards are playing off a postponed game with Philadelphia at Ebbets Field tomorrow, the Cards will be idle. They open a final three-game series with Chicago here Friday night, an open date in the Dodgers schedule.

The crowd of 22,537 lifted the season home attendance to 844,033 with three more home dates giving Sam Breadon a chance at his first million paid box.

Dodgers Crack Up In Ninth Inning, Phils Win, 11-9

Five-Run Rally Decides Game; Brooklyn Uses Eight Pitchers

BROOKLYN, Sept. 25 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers were all but eliminated from the torrid National League pennant race today when, cracking under the terrific strain, they blew up in a ninth-inning rally against the Philadelphia Phillies who scored five runs to win 11-9 before 22,345 dumberst fans.

The loss set the Dodgers back a game and a half behind the St. Louis Cardinals who can clinch at least a tie by splitting their remaining four games, even if the Dodgers win all three of theirs. The Cards were scheduled to meet the Cincinnati Reds in St. Louis tonight.

In going down to defeat, the Dodgers used eight pitchers, a record for the National League, and tying the American League standard made by Washington in 1913.

In that fatal ninth, the Dodgers started with Rookie Harry Taylor and a three-run lead. The Philadelphia Phillies broke the lead in the ninth, scoring five runs to win 11-9 before 22,345 dumberst fans.

ILLINI VS. IRISH—Before a crowd of 72,000 fans, the powerhouse football teams representing Notre Dame and Illinois will clash at Champaign, Saturday, in a game which could settle the national collegiate football title. Illinois is being hailed as the coming Western Conference champion and Notre Dame is "loaded" as usual. The Irish will have to stop the Illini speedster, Buddy Young, while the Illini must stop the vaunted Irish attack, engineered by Johnny Lujack, the quarterback.

Servo Gives Up Boxing Title Due To Nose Injury

Robinson-Jack Contest Is Planned By NBA For Welter Title

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—Baby-faced Marty Servo, who couldn't get the New York State Athletic Commission to believe his nose was badly injured, was forced today to abdicate his world welterweight championship and retire from the ring because of the injury.

Immediately the National Boxing Association, which refused to go along with the New York Commission in vacating the New York half of the title when Marty pleaded for his aching proboscis a few weeks ago, announced it would sanction a bout between the stringbean contender, Ray Robinson, and former lightweight champion Beau Jack for the crown.

This would probably have to be a late-winter presentation of the ear-scrambling frolic, since Jack's fall card already has tentatively penciled in Willie Joyce for a Chicago party and a meeting with the winner of a proposed Bob Montgomery-Wesley Mazon get-together in Philadelphia.

Servo and his manager, Al Well, made the announcement of the retirement of the 26-year-old Schenectady, N. Y., bulldog of the ring after their personal physician, in one last examination, told them the condition of Marty's nose was such that for him to continue to fight would jeopardize his health and future welfare.

His schenosis has been suffering ever since he was knocked out in a non-title bout with Rocky Graziano last March. He suffered a deviated nasal septum in that affair, and since then his injury has twice forced him to call off a time-defeating Robinson, who has often been tabbed "the uncrowned champion" in recent years.

It was after the last plea for postponement of a tussle slated for September 6 that the New York state fathers took New York title recognition away from Marty, suspended him and his manager indefinitely and announced that a tournament would be held to decide a new champion.

Robinson-Jack was chosen at a squad election last night. Coach Frank Leahy announced the result today. Leahy said Notre Dame would use game captains all season. Caraboski, back at Notre Dame after three years in the navy, was the regular right tackle of the 1943 Irish team.

Fusari To Test Larkin

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—Tippy Larkin of Garfield, N. J., and Charles Fusari, Irvington, N. J., welterweight who is unbeaten in 40 professional bouts, agreed to terms today for a 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden Friday, Dec. 13.

Braves Defeat Giants, Tie Cubs For Third

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—A five-run first inning enabled the Boston Braves to tie the New York Giants 6-5 tonight and tied them with the Chicago Cubs for third place in the National League.

The Braves started fast, knocking out lower Monte Kennedy with a five-run first in the first inning, featuring a pair of doubles by Billy Herman and Tommy Holmes and Prolian Fernandez two-run singles. They scored what proved to be the decisive tally when Mulligan walked with the bases loaded in the fifth.

After scoring twice in the first, the Giants picked up another pair on Babe Young's pinch-homer seventh, with one on, Bobby Thomson also belted a homer for the Giants, in the eighth. Score: Boston 6, New York 5.

Pirates Buy Player

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25 (AP)—General Manager Ray L. Kennedy of the Pittsburgh Pirates today announced purchase of outfielder Westlake from the Oakland, Calif., club of the Pacific Coast League.

Kennedy said the outfielder was acquired for a quantity of cash, plus three players to be turned over to Oakland after next spring's training trip.

The club also announced the outright release of Shortstop Huck Geary to the Indianapolis Club, of the American Association, to make room for Westlake under the current 40-man limit.

To Fight Here—Ralph Freedman, Pittsburgh light heavyweight, above, will swap punches with Jack Lyons, of LaCrosse, Pa., in the ten-round feature bout on Monday night's boxing card at the State Armory. Ralph is 23 years old and served in the Navy for over four years. He tips the beam at 175 and is 5 feet, 11 inches tall. Last March Freedman won the Pittsburgh Golden Gloves tournament at Duquesne Garden. The Freedman-Lyons fight will top a program of five bouts comprising 31 rounds of milling.

Cubs Return Manders

CHICAGO, Sept. 25 (AP)—James T. Gallagher, general manager of the Chicago Cubs today announced the return of Pitcher Hal Manders from the Buffalo Club of the International League. Manders, a cousin of Cleveland's Bob Feller, was purchased from the fifth place Bisons last month.

Bob Feller Whiffs Ten, Nears Waddell's Record

Loses To Chicago, 4-1; Needs Six Strikeouts To Tie Rube's Mark

CLEVELAND, Sept. 25 (AP)—Bob Feller today moved into a commanding position in his bid to surpass Rube Waddell's latest strikeout record of 343, fanning 10 Chicago White Sox to boost his season total to 337. The Sox beat the Cleveland Indians 4-1, with Joe Haynes allowing five hits and Feller four.

Feller fanned every batter in the Sox lineup except Outfielder Dave Philley and his old battery mate, Frankie Hayes. He fanned Joe Kuhel, Cass Michaels and Thurman Tucker twice, and struck out the side in the seventh.

The Sox broke a 1-1 deadlock with a three-run spurge in the fifth on a walk to Hayes and singles by Hayes, Luke Appling and Kuba Feller didn't permit a hit after the fifth. Box:

INJURIES MAY KEEP STERRETT, SZAIFRAN FROM CATS' LINEUP

KEYSER, Sept. 25 (AP)—The Potomac State Catamounts may enter the game against Concord College this Saturday without the services of Halfback Stanley Szaifran and Tackle Andy Sterrett. Szaifran's wrenched knee has not been responding to treatment and he may be benched in favor of Mike Yawick. Sterrett has an infection in his arm and may give way to Jim McFarland at the tackle post. Another replacement, Earl Shaffer, will start at center in place of Joe Manchinn who pulled a back muscle in the game with West Virginia Tech. Barring the sidelining of Szaifran and Sterrett, Coach Lough said that he expects a better performance by the Catamounts this Saturday. A scrimmage was held yesterday and Lough said that the timing and blocking of the team had improved considerably.

Egan Will Scout

DETROIT, Sept. 25 (AP)—A. J. (Wish) Egan has been relieved of his duties on the administrative staff of the Detroit Tigers at his own request to return to the field as a baseball scout. General Manager George Trautman announced today.

Egan, a veteran of 30 years with the Tigers, took over the supervision of the scouting personnel last spring when the staff was enlarged from four to 10.

Allegany-Alumni Tilt Ends In Tie

500 Witness Scoreless Deadlock; Peterson, Anderson To Start

Preparing for their opening home game with Fort Hill High School tomorrow at 8 p. m. at the stadium, Coach Robert Pence's Allegany High School gridders battled a scrappy Alumni eleven to a scoreless tie yesterday at Campobello before a gathering of approximately 500 spectators.

The field was lined off for the game and from the enthusiasm shown by the large crowd the practice affair had all the earmarks of a regularly scheduled contest.

Twice during the scrimmage Allegany was in a scoring position but on both occasions the Grads made gallant goal line stands to halt the varsity in its tracks. The Campers were halted on the two-yard stripe on one occasion while on another they advanced to the eight where their offensive bogged down. Coach Pence's gridders also halted an Alumni threat late in the game, stopping the opposition after they had advanced within eight yards of the AHS goal line. Allegany held a 6-3 edge in first downs.

Coach Pence announced last night that Bruce Anderson, former backfield player, who was ineligible for the opener at Somerset, will start at left guard against Fort Hill, while "Dutch" Peterson will be at right half in place of the injured Mori Peskin.

KEYSER SECOND TEAM TO FACE FORT ASHBY

KEYSER, W. Va., Sept. 25 (AP)—Coach Fred Clark will trot out his second team when Keyser High School plays host to Fort Ashby High School in a Potomac Valley Conference football game Friday at 2:45 o'clock at Stayman Field.

Bill Conway and Kenneth Cross will start at the end positions; Neil Wensell and John Sherman, tackles; Bernard Eiben, fullback; Timbrook, guards; Richard Cline, center; Lloyd Maine, quarterback; Carroll Nelson and Alston Martin, halfbacks, and Harold Raines, fullback.

Tommy Quinn, regular fullback, who suffered a bone separation of the left shoulder in the Charles Town game, will be out

Stymie Annexes Manhattan 'Cap'; Assault, Third Winner Boosts Earnings To $411,035; Pavot Finishes Second

BELMONT PARK, N. Y., Sept. 25 (AP)—Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Stymie won the Manhattan Handicap at Belmont today to become the third horse in turf history to boost his earnings over the $400,000 mark.

King Ranch's triple-crown winning three-year-old Assault, making his first start against older horses, finished in a dead heat for third with J. B. Deady Flareback, as Pavot chased Stymie to the wire.

A crowd of 22,191 saw Stymie, carrying top weight of 126 pounds, and ridden by Basil James, take command from Pavot as the field turned into the stretch, and hustle to the wire half a length in front of Pavot. Three lengths farther back, Assault, closing fast, got up to dead-heat the four-year-old Flareback for the show spot.

Stymie clicked off the mile and a half grind in 2:29 2-5, going the last half in 2:50 2-5. He returned a favorite's price of $4.20, $2.60 and $2.10 across the board. Pavot was $3.40 for place and $2.10 for show, and Flareback and Assault, who carried 116, paid the legal $2.10 minimum for third.

The victory was worth $20,050 to the Texas bred five-year-old, thus lifting his lifetime earnings to $411,035, with only Whirlaway and Seabiscuit still in front of him on the all-time money winning list. Pavot, taking $5,000 second money, lifted his earnings to $354,115, good enough for eighth place on the same list. Assault and Flareback each collected $1,875 for the third place. For Assault, it moved his bankroll up to $389,845, including $4,500 nominator's awards he picked up in taking the Preckness and Belmont.

Stymie Annexes Manhattan 'Cap; Assault, Third

Winner Boosts Earnings To $411,035; Pavot
Finishes Second

BELMONT PARK, N. Y., Sept. 25 (AP)—Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Stymie won the Manhattan Handicap at Belmont today to become the third horse in turf history to boost his earnings over the $400,000 mark.

King Ranch's triple-crown winning three-year-old Stymie, making his first start against older horses, finished in a dead heat for third with J. B. Thelma's Mareback, as Pavot chased Stymie to the wire.

A crowd of 22,191 saw Stymie, carrying top weight of 126 pounds and ridden by Basil James, take command from Pavot as the field turned into the stretch, and hustle to the wire half a length in front of Pavot. Three lengths farther back, Assault, closing fast, got up to dead-heat the four-year old Mareback for the show spot.

Stymie clicked off the mile and a half in 2:29 2-5, going the last half in 2:50 2-5. He returned a favorite's price of $4.20, $2.60 and $2.10 across the board. Pavot was $3.40 for place and $2.10 for show, and Mareback and Assault, who carried 116, paid the legal $2.10 minimum for third.

The victory was worth $20,050 to the Texas bred five-year old, thus lifting his lifetime earnings to $411,035, with only Whirlaway and Seabiscuit still in front of him on the all-time money winning list. Pavot, taking $5,000 second money, lifted his earnings to $354,115, good enough for eighth place on the same list. Assault and Mareback each collected $1,875 for the third place. For Assault, it moved his bankroll up to $399,845, including $4,500 nominator's awards he picked up in taking the Preakness and Belmont.

Collections For Jones Family Fund Total $402

Purple Heart Chapter Will Give Proceeds Of Dance To Fund; Monthly Pledges Made

Individuals and organizations throughout Allegany county are going "all out" to see that there is money available to keep the six Jones children at Midland, together with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Joseph Jones, and sister Betty Jane, are in the State Sanatorium at Sabillasville receiving treatment for tuberculosis.

Response to the NEWS appeal for funds to care for the children and employ a housekeeper to live with them while their parents are away was even better yesterday than it was the first day of the campaign. At 6 p. m. yesterday tabulation of contributions was completed for the day showing receipts of $243 which added to the $159 turned in Tuesday makes a total of $402 contributed to the "Jones Family Fund" in two days.

Mountain Chapter No. 106, Military Order of the Purple Heart, the first contributor to the fund Tuesday, announced through George L. Leib, yesterday that the net proceeds from its dinner-dance on Oct. 4 at the All Ghan Shrine Country Club will be donated to the fund.

Open To Public

Leib said the annual installation of officers of the Chapter for the ensuing year will be held at the meeting. He added that original plans were to limit the sale of tickets to 100 but since reading about the "Jones Family Fund", officers of the Chapter decided to sell 200 tickets and invite the general public to attend the dinner and dance, with the net proceeds going to the fund.

Only 200 tickets will be sold, Leib said, and he stressed the fact that the first 200 persons to ask for tickets will get them. Reservations for tickets can be made by calling 4672, Cumberland. Tickets will also be on sale at Randa's Cut Rate Store and at the National Shirt shop, both on Baltimore street. The Moderns will play for the dance and the price of tickets will be $2.75 per person. The ticket entitles the holder to attend a "Cocktail Hour" at the Purple Heart Center from 5.30 to 7.30 p. m.

This is a fine gesture on the part of the Purple Heart Chapter, and is highly appreciated by the NEWS editors. The NEWS invites other organizations to give dances, card parties or other affairs to raise funds to aid the Jones children. The NEWS will be glad to give free publicity to any organization which desires to participate in this worthy undertaking.

Twenty-five contributions were made yesterday ranging from $1 to $25 and one of the most gratifying things to the editors of the NEWS is the fact that employees in various places are joining together in making contributions. As an example, the B and O Westbound Hump Yard crew, (7 a. m. to 3 p. m. day turn), contributed $15 while employees in Field's Millinery store here turned in $8. "A friend" gave $1 and said she would donate $1 each week as long as it was necessary to give aid to the family.

Another "friend" who signed his name "Irish" donated $2 and said he would give 50 cents monthly to the fund. Still another Cumberland citizen mailed a check for $10 and said he was of the opinion that it would be necessary to have a family for quite some time and that he will contribute monthly.

Employees of the Ort Bakery Company notified the NEWS and the "Jones Family Fund Committee" at Midland, that they will donate bread for the family as long as necessary, assuring the children of plenty of bread without taking money from the "Jones Family Fund" to pay for this necessary commodity.

The NEWS invites readers throughout the Tri-State territory to send in their contributions, and the quicker the better, as the committee at Midland is anxious to get some idea of how much money there will be to take care of the children. The committee will set up a monthly budget and at the end of each month will submit a statement of expenditures which the NEWS will publish.

Housekeeper Is Wanted

"The Jones Family Fund Committee" at Midland, of which William A. Wilson is chairman, is anxious to receive applications from reliable women who would like to go to the Jones home as housekeeper and care for the children while their parents are in the sanatorium. Persons who know of women who might be interested in keeping house for the children should get in touch with the committee at Midland or advise the Cumberland News.

The first two days of the campaign have been highly successful and the NEWS editors feel certain that the good people of the Tri-State region will keep their contributions coming in rapidly. Contributions can be left at the TIMES-NEWS BUILDING, 7 South Mechanic street, or mailed to "Jones Family Fund", care of Harry H. Robinson, Managing Editor, Cumberland News, Box 567, Cumberland, Md. All contributions will be acknowledged in the NEWS but in the event a contributor does not want his or her name used it will be listed as "A Friend." Make all checks payable to the "Jones Family Fund." Contributions to date follow:

William M. Abbott To Sail On Relief Ship For Europe

Celanese Employee Will Attend Livestock Being Sent War Countries

William M. Abbott, 35, employed at the Celanese Corporation of America, Anacostia plant, for the past 18 years, started on the first leg of a journey last night to either Germany or Italy.

Abbott, a member of the Church of the Brethren, explained that he will serve on a livestock ship going to either of the countries under the church's relief program. He said the trip will take from four to eight weeks, and he expects to return to the Celanese at that time.

Send Livestock To Europe

Since shortly after World War II started, the Church of the Brethren, assisted by other religious groups, and the United States Government, has been sending livestock to war ravaged countries to aid the people in starting new farms.

Abbott, who resides on Winchester road, with his wife and two daughters, declared yesterday that since he didn't take an active part in the war, he feels that he will be able to do something toward helping at this time.

The Cumberland man volunteered to be a livestock care taker on the ship which will leave from Newport News, Va., within the next couple of days. He declared he submitted his name early in August and was notified Monday by the Brethren Service Relief Center that he would sail this week.

The Celanese Corporation granted Abbott a leave of absence giving him sufficient time to make the trip. He declared last night that the voyage would be his first experience on the sea, but said he wanted to see for himself the conditions of European countries.

Purchased Calf In 1945

Abbott said he has been interested in the program since its inception, and in 1945 he purchased a calf that will shortly be donated to the cause. He explained that he paid about $20 for the animal and the Livingstone Church of the Brethren, this city, has contributed toward raising it.

The program provides for the church to furnish the livestock and the government to furnish the ships and pay for the men's services. Abbott declared. He said he will receive $150 for the trip.

According to the telegram, he will sail on a ship headed either for Germany or Italy. The volunteer said he didn't care which country he visited.

According to information which Abbott has received, the volunteer workers usually attend to 25 head of livestock on the trip, water and feeding them and keeping the stalls cleaned.

Abbott's wife and children will remain at the Winchester road home while he is gone.

Beth Jacob Plans New Year Services

Services marking Rosh Ha-shonah, the Jewish New Year, will be held at Beth Jacob Congregation, North Centre street, October 29, 1946. New Year services will be held tonight and Friday night at 7 o'clock.

Rabbi Jacob Aronson will be assisted by his brother, Samuel Aronson, New York City, a cantor, who came here last year when New Year services were held at Beth Jacob. The Jewish community of Cumberland is invited to attend.

Morning services will be held today and Friday at 8 o'clock. At the Thursday morning service Rabbi Aronson will preach a sermon on blowing the ram's horn or Shofar, which is blown to summon men to prayer and repentance. On Friday morning he will deliver a sermon on the subject "The Responsibility of the Jewish People to All Nations."

The Jewish New Year began yesterday at sundown and marked the beginning of the high holy day season, which will be concluded by the Day of Atonement on October 5.

BOOKED FOR FORUM—The annual Cumberland Community Forum series this year will include at least four noted lecturers, and as an added diversion, one program will feature a famed and talented couple interpreting Hispanic folk-music and folk-dancing. In the center above is Miss Teresita Osta, talented dancer who will be accompanied by her brother Emilio Osta, pianist. Upper left is Bruce Blevin, journalist. Lower left is Carey McWilliams, author, attorney and lecturer. Upper right is Andre Michalopoulos, statesman, scholar, author and orator. Lower right is Louis Fischer, journalist, author and speaker. Cooking School Recipe Books Now Available

Another shipment of Times-News cooking school recipe books has been received and the books can be secured either at the information booth at the Times-News building, 7 South Mechanic street, or by writing "Cooking School Editor, The Cumberland Evening Times, Cumberland, Md."

The supply of recipe books was not sufficient to meet the demand at the time the school was conducted, Sept. 10 to 13, and it was necessary to order additional copies for each of the four sessions.

Local Boy Escapes Serious Injury When Hit By Car

A 6-year-old local boy escaped serious injury late yesterday afternoon when he was struck by a car in the 300 block of Baltimore avenue and a 7-year-old local boy was apparently uninjured early Tuesday morning when he was hit by a car at the intersection of Decatur and Bedford streets.

Charles W. Cosgrove, 6, Baltimore avenue, was treated in Allegheny Hospital yesterday at 4.30 p. m. for abrasions on the left arm, shoulder and elbow.

Attaches were told the lad was walking along Baltimore avenue with his cousin, Donald Dwyer, and pulled away and ran in front of a moving car.

No Charges Placed—Officer J. Carl Stouffer, who investigated for city police, identified the driver as Alfred P. Zais, 469 Central avenue, and said no charges have been placed against the driver.

In an accident report filed with the chief commissioner of motor vehicles, Robert H. Leasure, 20, 122 Columbia street, reported the car he was operating struck a pedestrian at (Continued on Page 3, Col. 4)

Mayor Indicates Early Discussion Of Smoke Rule

Confers With Rail Officials On Problem; Suggests Broader Ordinance

Stating that he expects to meet with the City Council in the near future to confer on the proposed smoke control ordinance, which has passed its first reading, Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday that he believes the measure should be expanded to include all industries and not just the railroads.

The mayor explained that the railroads should not be singled out because industries also cause smoke and dust and should be subject to the same regulations.

Mayor Post conferred yesterday morning with W. E. Sample, Baltimore, assistant superintendent of fuel conservation for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, one of the railroad officials who conferred with the Mayor and City Council early this month regarding the provisions of the proposed ordinance.

Sample informed the mayor that he plans to bring a combustion engineering here from Cincinnati to assist in studying the problem, and stated that the railroad is anxious to do all it can to comply with smoke abatement plans.

Mayor Post expressed pleasure at the "considerable improvement" which he has observed recently in regard to reduction of the volume of railroad smoke, and Sample pointed out that although smoke cannot be eliminated entirely, it can be reduced to a considerable extent. He added that it takes time to work out the problem.

In regard to the local situation, Sample told the mayor that the problem is somewhat more complicated here because the city's topography and location make atmospheric conditions unusual.

Flew With Wright—The first speaker, Andre Michalopoulos was born in 1897. At the age of 11, his adventures began when he made an escape over France in a spherical balloon. A month later, October 7, 1908, Wilbur Wright took him up in a new-fangled contraption, the flying machine, on the first day that passenger flights were made. The place was LeMans, France, and the flight—four minutes—was a record that stood for many months.

Michalopoulos was at Oxford in 1916, where his studies were interrupted when he joined the Greek Army in Salonika. The following year he became private secretary to Prime Minister Venizelos, and in 1918 became the Civil Governor of the islands of the North Aegean, Lemnos, Imbros, Tenedos and Samothrace. A year later he resumed his studies at Oxford, graduated in 1920 and rejoined Venizelos as secretary in 1921.

More recently, while he was at his height, he broadcast a 15-minute radio commentary in English from Athens, and in April, 1941, he left Athens to rejoin the Greek Army in Crete. His ship was torpedoed, but he arrived when the battle was reaching a crescendo. With the fall of Crete imminent, the government decided he was too valuable to lose and dispatched him on a special mission to Egypt, where he helped organize Greek resistance in the Middle East.

After spending some time in London with the Greek government in exile, and serving as Minister of Information, he came to the United States in July, 1942.

Michalopoulos left government service convinced he could operate more effectively for Greece from the lecture platform. If he were not limited by the reticences imposed by official position.

Champions Minorities—Carey McWilliams, the second speaker of the series, is a California attorney who has devoted years of study to various phases of the subject of minorities. His books, including "Prejudice" and "Brothers Under the Skin," have received national attention and have had a marked effect on the development of local state and federal policy toward minority groups.

He served as Commissioner of Immigration and Housing in California from 1938 to 1942. His book, "Housing In The Field," proved of great interest, since it presented in facts and figures the same story that John Steinbeck had to tell in "Grapes of Wrath."

McWilliams was twice awarded the Guggenheim Fellowship, and has been on the staff of The Nation as an editor since 1945.

Political Writer Booked—Louis Fischer, the third speaker of the series, is described as an eminent journalist, political analyst and author of numerous works on world conditions.

Fischer's latest books—"The Great Challenge," which deals with the complex problems of war and peace; "The Soviets in World Affairs," a standard reference for students of Russian activities, and "Empire," "Down of Victory," and "A Week (Continued on Page 3, Col. 4)

Mayor Post conferred yesterday morning with W. E. Sample, Baltimore, assistant superintendent of fuel conservation for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, one of the railroad officials who conferred with the Mayor and City Council early this month regarding the provisions of the proposed ordinance.

Sample informed the mayor that he plans to bring a combustion engineering here from Cincinnati to assist in studying the problem, and stated that the railroad is anxious to do all it can to comply with smoke abatement plans.

Mayor Post expressed pleasure at the "considerable improvement" which he has observed recently in regard to reduction of the volume of railroad smoke, and Sample pointed out that although smoke cannot be eliminated entirely, it can be reduced to a considerable extent. He added that it takes time to work out the problem.

In regard to the local situation, Sample told the mayor that the problem is somewhat more complicated here because the city's topography and location make atmospheric conditions unusual.

Flew With Wright—The first speaker, Andre Michalopoulos was born in 1897. At the age of 11, his adventures began when he made an escape over France in a spherical balloon. A month later, October 7, 1908, Wilbur Wright took him up in a new-fangled contraption, the flying machine, on the first day that passenger flights were made. The place was LeMans, France, and the flight—four minutes—was a record that stood for many months.

Michalopoulos was at Oxford in 1916, where his studies were interrupted when he joined the Greek Army in Salonika. The following year he became private secretary to Prime Minister Venizelos, and in 1918 became the Civil Governor of the islands of the North Aegean, Lemnos, Imbros, Tenedos and Samothrace. A year later he resumed his studies at Oxford, graduated in 1920 and rejoined Venizelos as secretary in 1921.

More recently, while he was at his height, he broadcast a 15-minute radio commentary in English from Athens, and in April, 1941, he left Athens to rejoin the Greek Army in Crete. His ship was torpedoed, but he arrived when the battle was reaching a crescendo. With the fall of Crete imminent, the government decided he was too valuable to lose and dispatched him on a special mission to Egypt, where he helped organize Greek resistance in the Middle East.

After spending some time in London with the Greek government in exile, and serving as Minister of Information, he came to the United States in July, 1942.

Michalopoulos left government service convinced he could operate more effectively for Greece from the lecture platform. If he were not limited by the reticences imposed by official position.

Champions Minorities—Carey McWilliams, the second speaker of the series, is a California attorney who has devoted years of study to various phases of the subject of minorities. His books, including "Prejudice" and "Brothers Under the Skin," have received national attention and have had a marked effect on the development of local state and federal policy toward minority groups.

He served as Commissioner of Immigration and Housing in California from 1938 to 1942. His book, "Housing In The Field," proved of great interest, since it presented in facts and figures the same story that John Steinbeck had to tell in "Grapes of Wrath."

McWilliams was twice awarded the Guggenheim Fellowship, and has been on the staff of The Nation as an editor since 1945.

Political Writer Booked—Louis Fischer, the third speaker of the series, is described as an eminent journalist, political analyst and author of numerous works on world conditions.

Fischer's latest books—"The Great Challenge," which deals with the complex problems of war and peace; "The Soviets in World Affairs," a standard reference for students of Russian activities, and "Empire," "Down of Victory," and "A Week (Continued on Page 3, Col. 4)

Postwar Shortages Hit Two Nearby Colleges

GATEWAY CHATTER

By NEWS STAFF MEMBERS

"Gateway Chatter," like many other things was a war casualty, the column being discontinued when newspaper became so scarce that it was necessary to eliminate several features in order to get more essential news in the paper.

While there is not an abundance of newspaper yet the situation is a little better, and editors of the NEWS feel that there is a definite place in the paper for "Gateway Chatter" as there are many items more suitable for a column of this type than in a regular news story.

The NEWS staff hopes to make "Gateway Chatter" more or less a regular feature and will strive to use items of interest which will delight and inform our readers.

The other day a plate—similar to a license tag—was observed on the front of a Pennsylvania automobile parked on Washington street, which read "Take It Easy, Reduce Accidents." There isn't any doubt but what motorists as well as pedestrians need to be more safety conscious, as there are entirely too many accidents occurring these days.

One of our reporters had a tough job the other night getting any information from the owner of a meat market here who had closed his store due to the meat shortage. Apparently the meat market proprietor was disgusted with trying to run a butcher shop under OPA regulations, because he admitted he could get meat if he wanted to operate the store. The reporter had to do most of the talking with the proprietor having stock answers for most questions. We think you'll get as big a kick out of the conversation as we did, so here it is.

"I understand your meat market is closed," the reporter said to the owner, who replied, "Yep."

"When did you close?"

"I can't recall."

"Were you open last Monday?"

"Nope."

"Were you open last Saturday?"

"Yep."

"Then you must have closed Sunday."

"I can't recall."

"Were you open Sunday?"

"Nope."

"Why did you close?"

"I can't recall."

"Was it because of the OPA?"

"I can't recall."

"Was it because the prices of meat were lowered?"

"I can't recall."

"Was it because you couldn't get meat?"

"Nope."

"Can you get meat if you want to open?"

"Yep."

"Do you plan to reopen soon?"

"I hadn't thought of it."

"Can you get meat to reopen?"

"Yep."

"Are you going to reopen in the near future?"

"I hadn't thought of it."

"Will you be open next week?"

"I hadn't thought of it."

Disgusted by this time the reporter said "well there was a time in the history of Cumberland when you did operate a meat market wasn't there?"

"Yep."

"Thanks," the reporter said, "I wasn't sure you could recall after these many days of 'not thinking' about it."

Lack Of Housing Facilities, Textbooks, Equipment Reported At Potomac State, Frostburg

With dormitories taxed beyond capacity, residents of Keyser, W. Va., and Frostburg have come to the aid of Potomac State School and Frostburg State Teachers College, making it possible for both institutions to give instruction to record numbers of students.

At Potomac State School in Keyser, enrollment this year is at an almost even 600, according to Dr. E. E. Church, president, and is virtually double the previous high mark.

At least 225 students at the Keyser school are living in private homes in the community in addition to the 160 to 170 men and women using the regular dormitory facilities. Students living within a 25-mile radius of Keyser are living in their own homes.

Residents Praised—Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of State Teachers College, Frostburg, said that if it had not been for the residents of Frostburg, some students could not have been accommodated this year.

State Teachers College opened the term this year with 231 students but seven of them have dropped out, including three 19-year-old youths who were drafted. The remaining enrollment of 224 students, slightly more than half of them men, is either a new record or right next to it. Miss Compton said she has two reports of record enrollments, one of 215 students and another of 225.

Twenty of the men students are residing in Frostburg homes, while the remainder, nearly 100, commute to classes daily. The women's dormitory is comfortably filled but not crowded.

Housing was not expected to cause any particular problem at Potomac State because of a federal housing project of 96 units which was scheduled to be completed by September 4, but indications now are that it will not be ready for occupancy until later in the fall.

Faculty Members Homeless—Consequently, the 24 units for married men and their families are not ready for occupancy and the college was forced to have married students to leave their wives and children at home.

The housing situation at Frostburg is so bad, Miss Compton said, that three new faculty members have not been able to find living quarters for their families.

One instructor left his wife in South Carolina, another left his in Cape Cod, and still another is living with his wife and daughter in a single dormitory room.

Housing, however, is not the only problem faced by either school.

Textbooks Are Scarce—Dr. Church, who pointed out that last year's enrollment at this time was about 225, said there is a tremendous shortage of textbooks, materials and laboratory equipment. All, he said, are extremely slow in delivery, but he added that he presumes all colleges are in the same predicament because of unusually heavy enrollments.

"We are meeting the situation fairly well," Dr. Church said, explaining that in some courses the supply of textbooks and materials in "fairly good" although it is "terrible" in others, particularly in language courses.

Students are doubling up and sharing texts and materials while the college wherever they can be purchased. Most orders are being made by telephone calls and telegrams. Books are being purchased from publishers, book exchanges and second hand concerns.

Alleged Slayer Of Former Local Man Faces Trial

A retired railroad worker charged with the fatal stabbing of a former Cumberland man on April 6 in Washington, during an altercation, will go on trial next Wednesday in the nation's capital.

Police said the accused man, Franklin J. Otto, 65, admitted stabbing Ernest Benneer, 48, a one-legged man, with a dagger on the threshold of Otto's apartment at 1209 North Capital street. Otto has been held following a hearing before a coroner's jury in Washington. The dagger was brought back from overseas as a war souvenir by Otto's son.

Otto said that Benneer was subject to rages when drunk and had assaulted him several times "for no reason" during the six months preceding the slaying. Benneer had broken three of his ribs on one occasion, Otto stated. Otto is a one-legged man.

Benneer's wife, Mrs. Florence Benneer, who has been living on West Oldtown Road, this city, since her husband's death, was notified yesterday by U. S. Deputy Marshal Howard P. Loughrie to be ready to go to Washington next Monday for the trial.

The widow told at the time how her husband had decided not to leave her alone at their small shack near Forestville, Md., while he went to work at Homeopathic Hospital because she had suffered three strokes. She said he suggested he drop her off at Otto's apartment.

Mrs. Benneer had formerly done housework for Otto.

Both Mrs. Benneer and Otto suggested that Benneer come to the apartment that night after work and she said her husband was drunk when he reached the place.

Otto said he told Benneer: "I told you to enter my apartment." Otto said he was terrified because he thought Benneer would attack him. He told how he grabbed a dagger and thrust at Benneer. The latter reeled back and started to walk down the stairs. Otto said Benneer collapsed and died on the landing.

GETTING ALONG NICELY—

Russell Leo Poling, 30, who suffered possible chest injuries when he was struck by a car at the corner of Baltimore avenue and Park street Tuesday night, is evidently enjoying his convalescence in Memorial Hospital, where attaches report his condition to be "good." The boy is the son of Mrs. Homer H. Mensterfort, 531 Dorn avenue.
